Antioch Upper Grade students spend day considering tough issues

By JULIE MURPHY

Students who gathered for an assembly had barely quieted enough to hear the introduction being made by one of the MWAH! performers, when "Nigger" boomed from the back of the auditorium of the Antioch Upper Grade School.

"Who are you calling nigger, honky?"

Commotion erupted—pushing, shoving, threats, and finally an administrator broke things up.

Murmur replaces raised voices.

It wasn't certain this fight had been staged until John Lennon's song "Imagine" became audible—"...imagine all the people sharing all the world"

Students instantly recognized and cheered for the voice of Martin Luther King as the music faded. By the time he got to "...free at last, free at last," the fighting performers were hugging up on the stage.

Environmental Club voices worries over proposed Neumann plans

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"We need something for the future," said Antioch Community High School Environmental Club president, Lauren Wennstrom.

The club wrote the Army Corps of Engineers to file its complaint against the proposed Neumann Homes development.

"We understand that they have to put in homes, but the number of homes they are going to put in is ridiculous," Wennstrom continued.

The group is concerned about protecting the wetlands, including the Antioch Bog, contained within the 634 acre proposed building site.

"Though they (Neumann) wouldn't directly destroy the bog, runoff and watershed would end up killing it anyway," said Wennstrom.

of the U.S. through the Clean Water Act. All of the letters of concern received by the Army Corp of Engineers are then forwarded to Neumann Homes.

Neumann Homes then has 30 days to respond individually to the letters received.

"We had been hoping to hear back from Neumann Homes before the next meeting, but we haven't," said Wennstrom. "They skirted around all of the questions at the last meeting, so we were really hoping to get their response before this one."

Leesa Beal, chief, permit section regulatory branch, of the Army Corp of Engineers said, "The project was granted an extension to respond to the comments. They have another 30 days. We will be meeting in early June to discuss both the project and their response."

"Nothing will live on small plots of land (referring to the sensitive wetlands). You need bigger plots for diversity. We want to keep the diversity," Wennstrom concludes.

ACRE formed to ward off development

Group to provide financial support in legal fight against Neumann Homes

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Residents opposed to Neumann Homes' proposed development plan to build 1,390 houses on 634 acres of property in the East Sub Area have formed a group called ACRE in hopes of thwarting the plan.

ACRE stands for Antioch Coalition to Rescue the Environment. The group contends that the development would bring an estimated 4,000 additional people to the area, 2,000 of those school age children, and that those people would be driving some 3,000 vehicles.

ACRE has calculated that 7,000 trees would be destroyed in construction, including oak savannas.

One of the goals of the group is to offer financial assistance to Dale Brandt, who has retained attorney Newton Finn to file objections to the plan.

Brandt noted, "ACRE is being formed by a number of people opposing this development and what it means to them is all different. It's not necessarily to support our efforts alone."

Finn would not comment on the objections at this time, stating he will be bringing the objections to the board at the next plan commission meeting.

For more information about joining ACRE, or offering financial support, contact Marianne Guy at 395-6539.

Sign concept sent back to redevelopment commission

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Concerned about promoting a directional rather than specific businesses, the village board sent the parking lot sign concept back to the redevelopment commission.

The signs' purpose is to make parking and shopping in the downtown area easier. The concept is two-fold. First, signs will indicate where parking lots are located as one drives through town. Second, signs placed in the parking lot itself will indicate how one gets to the store-fronts.

The initial designs called for the signs to list the individual stores that front the buildings.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said, "I'm in favor of supporting all business in Antioch. This is just a wish here, but I would like to see a brochure listing everything we have to offer."

The lots discussed are behind the stores on the east side of Main

MESSAGES

Are Hopeful, was the culmination of a special day devised to enhance student awareness and sensitivity to issues of importance for teens. The troupe, which is made up of teens, stimulates other teens to think and react in ways which are positive.

School social worker Katie Lind arranged this day for the students called "Student Voices 2000." The day was planned to coincide with national "Say no to drugs and alcohol day."

Lind said, "Student Voices 2000 is similar to our snowflake program. The snowflake program has become very popular. It takes place on one of the days off in February. Only 100 kids are able to participate on this day so it fills quickly—and it's not open to the sixth-graders."

During Student Voices 2000, Antioch Upper Grade students participated in workshops instead of going to regular classes.

The emphasis for sixth-graders was on self, family, relationships and distinguishing good touch from bad touch. They were presented information from the Lake County Council Against Sexual Assault which addressed issues of sexual contact and from the LE Company which focused on listening to oneself and not peers.

The topic for seventh-graders was substance abuse effects and addictions. Not just "hard" drugs were discussed but tobacco and alcohol as well. Speakers included Antioch Elementary District 34 prevention coordinator Chris Newton, parent Cathy Cratty, who is a prevention coordinator for Deerfield, and Suzanne Walker from the Forest Hospital Day Treatment Center.

Eighth-grade girls and boys were split. The girls studied "Reviving Ophelia," a coming-of-age book and video for young women.

Boys engaged in activities to help with conflict resolution and making smart choices.

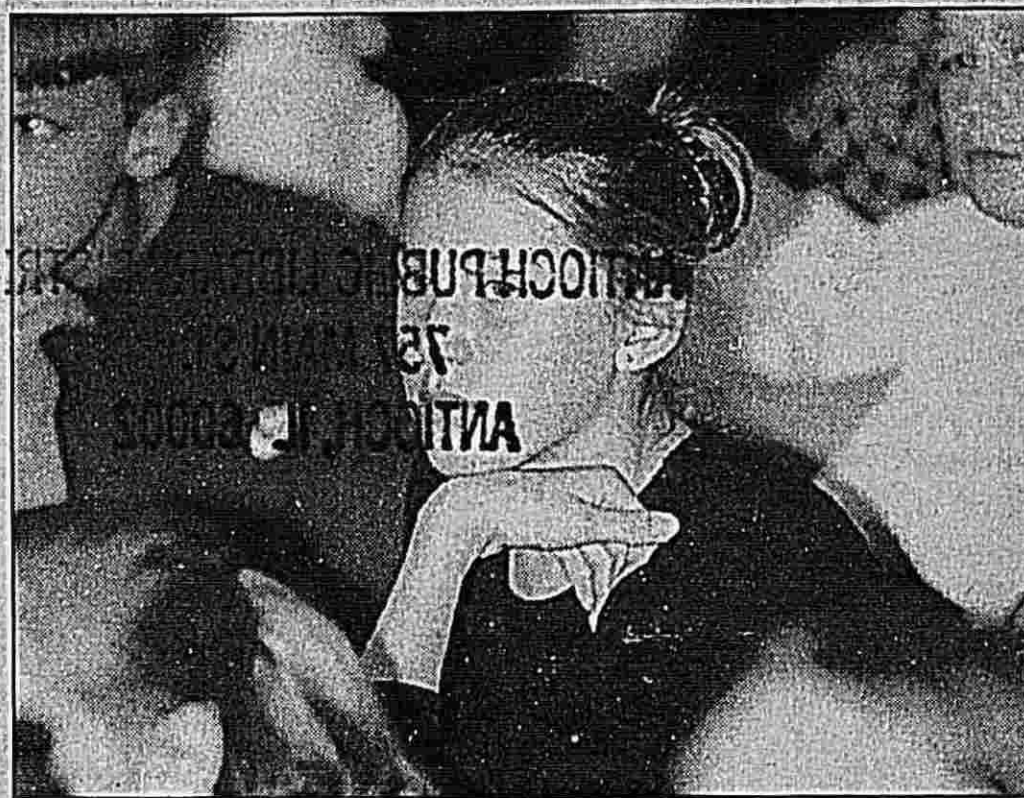

Complicated scenarios were set for discussion. In one, students talked about where the blame should fall when a girl who habitually drinks gets into a car accident. Should it go to the girl who drinks, her friends who see the problem developing or the person who helps her buy alcohol.

MWAH!'s performance punctuated all of the day's workshops and discussion topics. The message underlying all others was a child learns what he lives and believes what he feels.

Racism, physical and emotional child abuse, drinking, drugs, peer out-casting, self-esteem and the power of good decisions were all addressed through drama, song and high energy dance.

Students shrieked with joy as the performers left the stage and danced and sang their way through the auditorium inviting audience participation. The overall objective was to inspire young people to face life's challenges and opportunities with knowledge, confidence and a positive self-image.

SIGN

St. and have been fixed up to make them inviting for both residents and visitors to the area. Walkways make it possible to access the street without having to go around the building.

The concept brought to the board was rejected as it referenced specific businesses in addition to providing directional information.

"I feel more comfortable with us promoting the directional, not promoting the business," said Trustee Dorothy Larson.

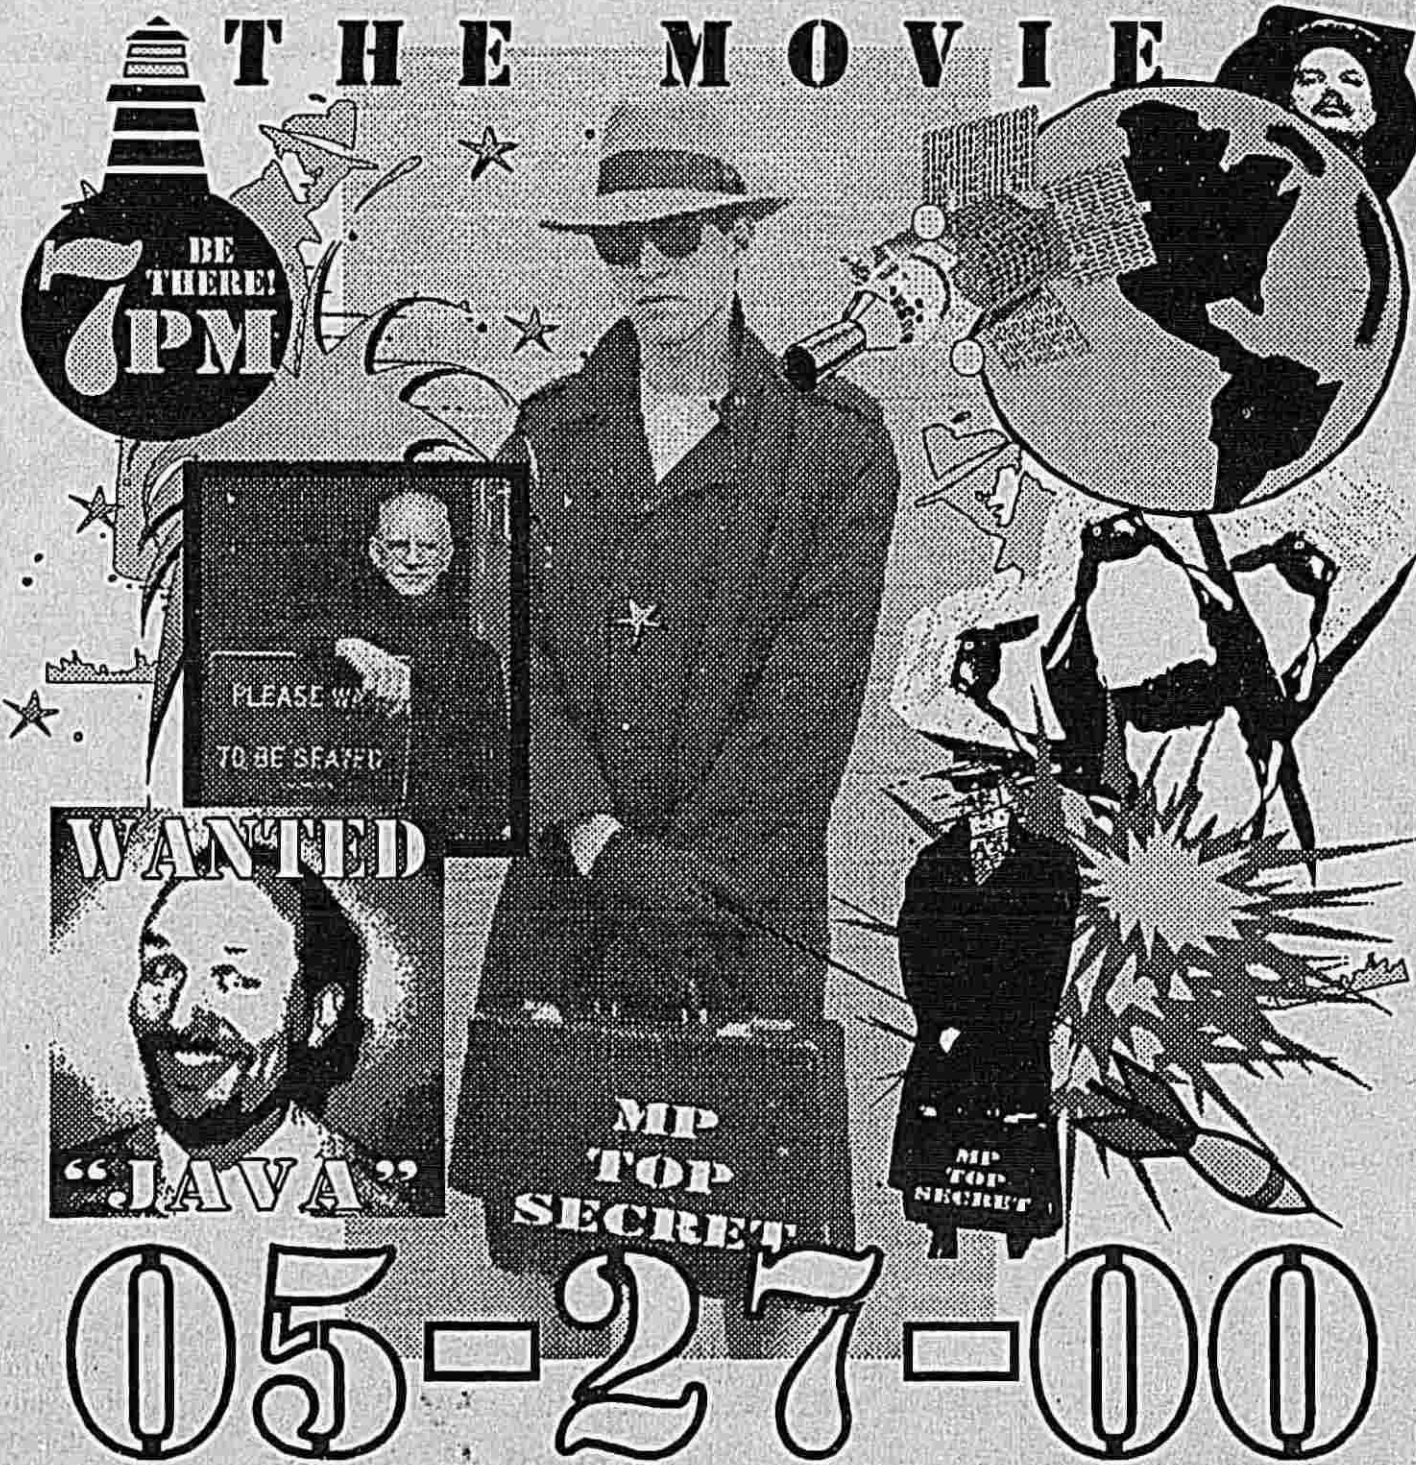

Trustee Wayne Foresta said, "The signs should relate back to something. The street side should say 'to walkway 1' corresponding with the parking lot number in the back. That way people will know how to get back to where they parked their cars."

"We, as business owners, are responsible for advertising our own businesses and letting people know which parking lots we are near," added Trustee Larry Hanson.

All four trustees who were present voted to send the concept back to redevelopment for revisions to simplify the signs and make them more directional.

Students take trip to Destination ImagiNation

By BRENDA BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

Seven local students at Antioch Upper Grade School headed out May 24 on a trip to someplace not on any map. Their actual point of arrival was Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa. The point of their trip was, however, not the physical destination, but the mental journey.

All seven are participants in "Destination ImagiNation 2K," a competition that encourages going "outside the box" in approaching problem-solving.

Destination ImagiNation bills itself as "an international organization for kindergarten through college students teaching life skills and expanding imaginations through team-based creative problem solving." Participants are challenged with theme-based projects, prepared prior to the contest, while an "Instant Challenge" calls upon improvisational skills, requiring contestants to solve problems on the spur-of-the-moment.

"It's hard to explain to people," said coach Kris Scheidt. "It's not like a track meet or a science fair."

This year's theme was "If music is the food of life, play on." Entrants were asked to tell a story without words, incorporating a musical instrument that had not previously existed. No part of a real instrument could be used as part of the invention.

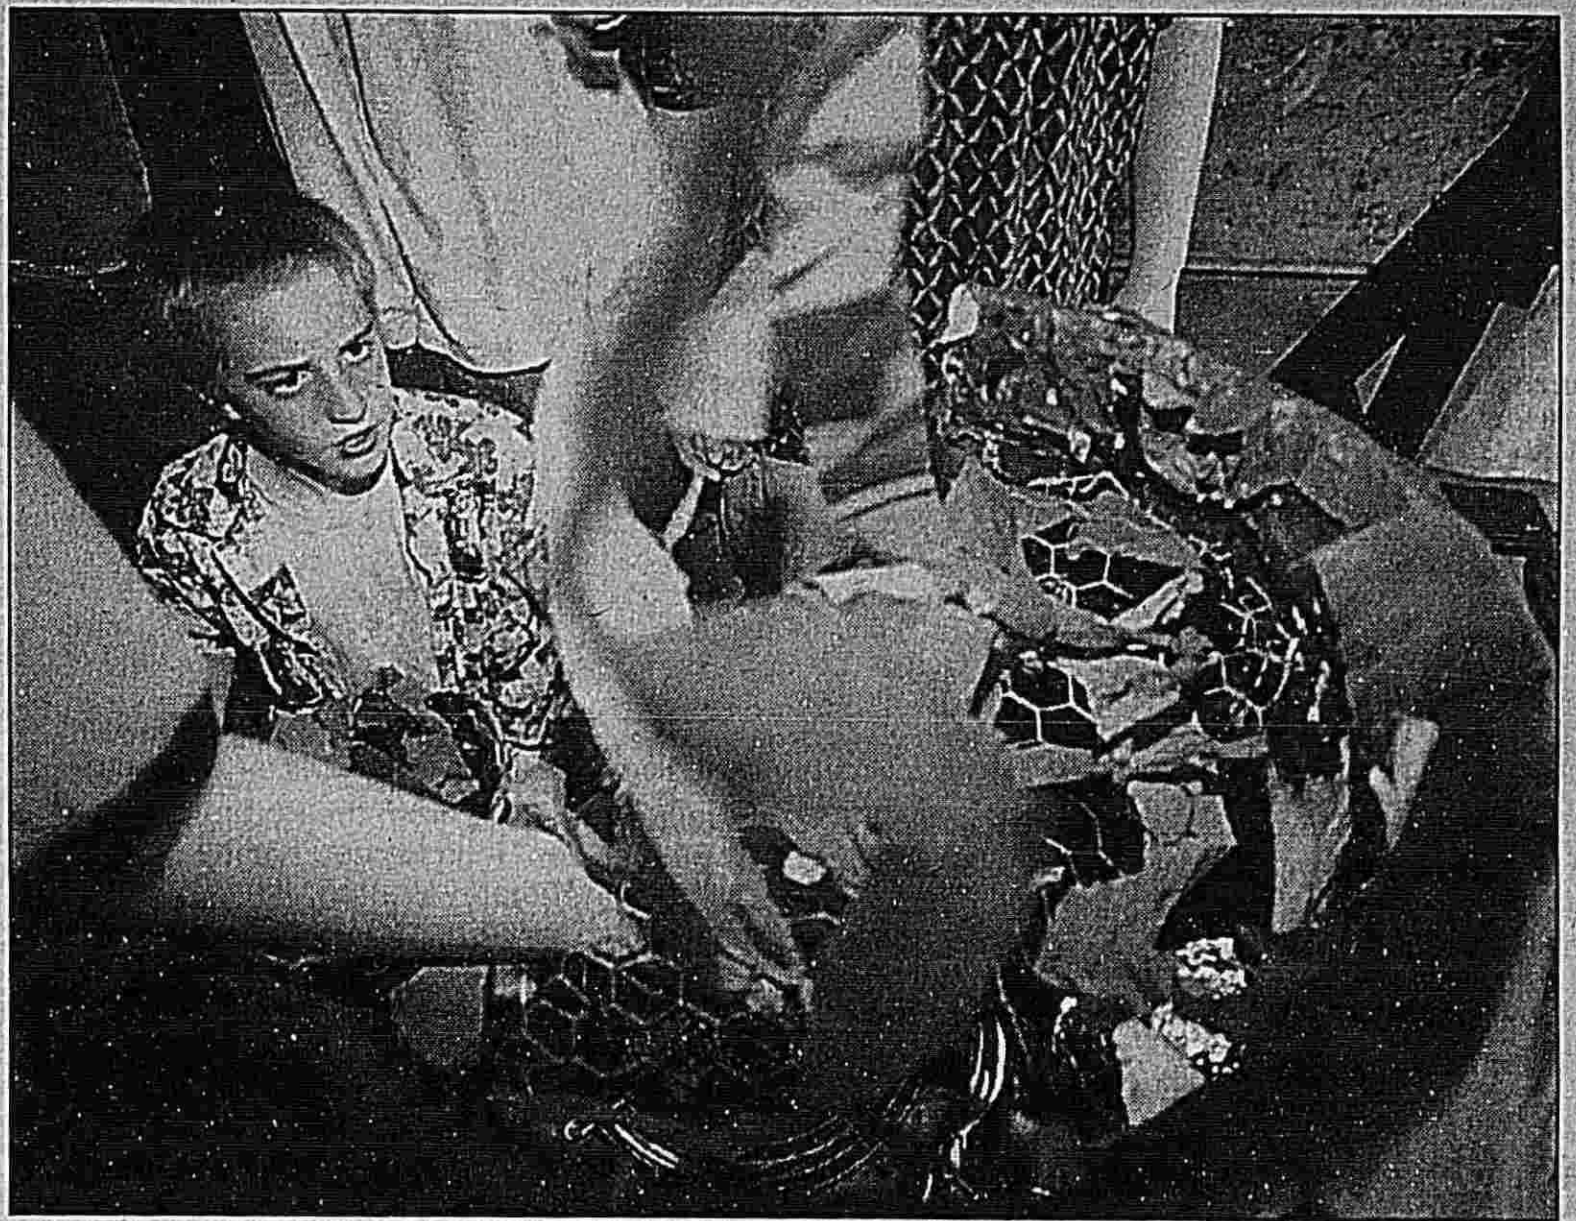

Seventh-graders John Barlow of Lindenhurst, Niko Jefferson of Lake Villa, Peter Scheidt of Lake Villa Township, and sixth-graders Joe Barlow, Steve Suhar of Lindenhurst, Dan Roche of Antioch, and first-time entrant Pat Chybowski of Lake Villa, rose to the challenge.

They created a scenario involving two "island girls" (Chybowski and Joe Barlow, dressed in grass skirts, coconuts and "fruit hats") who encounter their first airplane pilot. Frightened, they sound a "coconut flute-alarm." The "flute-alarm" is made out of a bellows, a basketball (to simulate a coconut) and washers in a PVC tube. The bellows push air through the tube making a sound which has probably never been heard before. The "coconut" is designed to hang from a "tree" until the "girls" need it.

"Coaches have no input at all," Kris Scheidt said. "This is totally the kids' ideas and work. Even if you think you have a good idea, it will be nothing compared to what the kids can do."

The seven students won their spot in the "global" contest after competing in regional and state events. Although these boys have never worked as a team before, they all are eager to do it again.

Chybowski summed it up. "It's a chance to use creativity, and to learn a lot about teamwork."

Swim lessons cause back up at park office

Camp registration also fills quickly

BY BECKY DUBA
Staff Reporter

The line stretched out of the building at the Antioch Park Department as registration for summer swim lessons began.

"We had people waiting in line at 7 that morning," Laurie Stahl, the Park and Recreation Director, said. "Not even all the residents got in."

"Beginners and intermediate were completely full by the end of the day and a lot of people were upset they didn't get in," Stahl said concerning the line. "Last year the beginners class filled up very quickly too."

All that is left open are spots for the pre-school program and the advanced swim classes.

The pool officially opens May 27 at noon. "Historically, we always open on Memorial Day weekend with weather permitting," Stahl said. "After that, while kids are still in school, the pool is open 4-8 p.m. After school is out, we're open 12-8 p.m."

Another program that fills up quickly is the summer day camp for children ages 4-12.

"We started taking registration for that in April and we take 70 kids," Stahl said. "We'll keep the kids all day, from 7 a.m.-6 p.m. and that's all full now too."

One other popular program at the Antioch Park Department is golf. They have instruction programs for both adults and children.

Additional classes being offered in June include karate, summer gymnastics, art classes and tennis.

The Park Department also offers a day sports camp for children.

"We have an all sports camp taught by an Antioch Lower Grade School instructor. The kids meet for 10 weeks, one hour a week and it's only $50," Stahl said.

For more information about programs and camps contact the Antioch Park Department at 395-2160.

Maxi-Storage withdraws annex application

By BRENDA BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

After a lengthy presentation and discussion at a meeting of the Lake Villa Plan Commission, attorney Dan Venturi, representing J. Michael Rickher and Maxi-Storage, withdrew an application for an annexation agreement with re-zoning.

Venturi said the proposal would be re-submitted after changes had been made to include a C.U.P. (conditional use permit) to assure specific use of the site, with a time limit imposed for implementation.

The agreement involves re-zoning a parcel of land at Villa Rica Rd. and Grass Lake Rd. for use as a site for 300 "condominium" maxi-storage units designed to hold boats and large vehicles such as RVs. The land is currently zoned AG (agricultural) and includes a large portion of protected wetland, as well as undeveloped flatland.

The attorney presented a tax impact projection, indicating his estimate of $344,153 in real estate taxes to be generated from the project. A breakdown of allocation of the predicted tax shows the Village of Lake Villa receiving $38,419. Loon Lake would get a special assessment of $7,293 to be used for maintenance of the lake. The balance would go to school districts 34 and 117.

A major concern, repeatedly expressed by Loon Lake residents, was given voice by commission chairman Bill Smolarchuk.

"We could re-zone this parcel LI (light industry) with no assurance that what we're approving today is actually going to take place. I think if this project were to go, one of the biggest concerns on my part would be that it be done under a C.U.P."

Smolarchuk asked Lake Villa village attorney John Mullen if the village could issue a C.U.P. with a time limit, so that if the project were not done, the zoning would revert back.

Mullen said that could be done, or it could be part of the annexation agreement, or both.

Venturi, speaking for the developer, said, "We're not opposed to that at all."

"The question is a request for a zoning change," said Smolarchuk. "What I'm hearing is that the public might be more receptive if this were under a C.U.P. This commission would like to look at this under a C.U.P. rather than a straight zoning. There are two options: we can vote tonight, and you take whatever vote comes from your request, or you can withdraw your petition and re-petition under a C.U.P. or P.U.D. or both."

Venturi asked for a "straw poll" of the commission members to determine whether there was support for the plan. Smolarchuk said that if the commission were to act on the original petition, "it would get shot down."

After protracted discussion on details of the project, Venturi stated that he was withdrawing the petition for re-zoning and annexation, to be re-submitted at a future date.

Celebrate Memorial Day with tradition, fun

Memorial Day, also called Decoration Day, originally commemorated soldiers killed in the American Civil War before the war had come to an end. The town of Columbus, Miss. is said to have the first observance for both the Union and Confederate dead in 1866.

In the north, Waterloo, N.Y. is cited as the birthplace of the observance in the same year.

Two years later, Commander in Chief John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic issued a general order designating May 30, 1868 a day of national celebration, "for the purposes of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion."

National observance is marked by placing a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia.

Closer to home, Memorial Day services will be held at the Antioch Veterans of Foreign War Post 4551 at

The Rotary Club of Antioch is easing the financial burden of 23 students heading to college this fall.

"I appreciate your kindness and huge hearts," said Eric Green, a second-year scholarship recipient and electrical engineering student from the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana.

All the students echoed this sentiment as they stood to introduce themselves and express their gratitude at the luncheon held in their honor. Many mentioned that they would not be able to attend the college of their choice if it weren't for the assistance they are receiving.

The students expressed interest in a wide variety of studies and prospective majors including criminology, dance, education, marketing, physical education, psychology, sociology, pilot training and ministry.

"It's been a great experience to work on the scholarship committee. So often what we hear is about kids not measuring up. Every year we are bolstered in our faith in the things the kids are doing," said Stan Livermore, head of the scholarship committee.

It was reported that the Rotary Club has given more than a quarter million dollars to deserving students over the years, with this year's scholarship money equaling $23,000 alone.

Jim Love, principal of the Antioch Community High School, of which most of the students are currently attending, said, "Not only do you donate money, but you work hard on the selection of these students."

Students apply for the scholarships through school. They are assigned numbers for anonymity. Rotary Club members review the applications and related materials.

This year's scholarship recipients are Timothy Bratton, Jourdan Phillips, Jennifer Wierzbicki, Dana Prouty, Megs Kotlarz, Krystle Kohl, Kelly Lindgren, Becky Watson, Jennifer Groth, Jenny Sauline, Anna Chelminska, Amanda Leonard, Liz Eisen, Jeff Fuller, John Tsakonas, Danielle Buchanan, Jenn Kerner, Clint Ludden, Jenna Blasko, Janine Bernhardt, Jennifer Dille, Laura Sheehan and Eric Green.

In addition to scholarship money, the Rotary Club approved the donation of $500 for the Destination Imagination team from Antioch Upper Grade School that is going to compete at the world finals at Iowa State University.

Also honored at the luncheon were top eighth-graders Katherine Reynolds and Liz Whitehurst from Emmons School and Palombi School respectively.

After Whitehurst introduced herself, Principal Mary Pat Jordan said, "Please remember her name. She's a great kid who's going to make a difference."

Principal Cyndy Vandrush said of Reynolds, "She has wonderful aspirations."

The Rotary Club of Antioch is able to make these and other charitable donations through the many fund-raisers the club conducts throughout the year. Raffle tickets are currently being sold for a 2000 Harley-Davidson 1200 Sportster Custom. Tickets are $50 and limited to 400. They can be purchased from any rotarian or at the First National Bank-Employee Owned or State Bank of the Lakes both in Antioch.

Camp Crayon registration

Registration for Camp Crayon begins on June 3 for residents and on June 5 for non-residents at the Parks and Recreation Department office in village hall.

Camp Crayon is a pre-school program for 3 to 5-year-olds. Children must be 3 by Sept. 1 and potty-trained to participate in the program. The program begins in September and runs through May.

Classes meet on Monday and Wednesday mornings from 8:30-11:30 a.m. or Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 8:30-11:30 a.m. and afternoon classes from 12:30-3:30 p.m.

Classes allow 26 children per class. Payment sessions are every six weeks (12 classes) with a fee of $65 for residents and $85 for non-residents.

Amazing Authors writing class offered

Amazing Authors is a unique writing enrichment program designed for 4 to 9-year-olds.

The class will run from June 20-July 13, and from July 18-Aug. 10.

Each session will feature the books and writing style of a different children's author and or illustrator.

Children will write, illustrate and publish a book of their own, as well as contribute ideas that will be used to write several group books.

Creativity, self-expression, and individual writing styles are all encouraged.

The class is taught at the home of Susan Geidner in Antioch. Geidner has 11 years of teaching experience, and has both a bachelor's and master's degree in education and curriculum development.

DUI

Robert J. Roberts, 43, of 9803 Spring Dale Dr. in Spring Grove, was arrested on May 21 at 2:54 a.m. for driving under the influence and the illegal transport of alcohol.

His Chevy van failed to stop at a red light. After turning from southbound Rte. 59 onto westbound Rte. 173, his vehicle swerved from the outside lane to the inside and back again.

Kazimierz S. Wiacek, 49, of 4035 Melrose in Chicago, was arrested for driving under the influence on May 21 at 12:36 a.m.

He crossed over the center line on Rte. 173 west of Deeplake Rd. toward the police officer's car and quickly swerved back.

Police detected a strong odor of an alcoholic beverage on Wiacek's breath.

Ted H. Miller, 41, of 12101 120th Ave. in Pleasant Prairie, Wis., was arrested on May 20 at 3:50 a.m. for driving with a revoked driver's license and for driving under the influence of alcohol.

He was stopped on North Ave. west of Drom Ct. after his vehicle was observed weaving within the lane and then crossing the center line.

Robert V. Thatcher, 43, of 25630 Dressel Rd. in Antioch, was arrested for driving under the influence on a revoked driver's license and for the possession of cannabis.

Thatcher's blue Pontiac Firebird crossed the yellow center line several times on Rte. 59 and was paced traveling 60 mph in a posted 45 mph zone.

Thatcher turned on to Beach Grove Rd. and accelerated at a high rate of speed.

Thatcher's court date is set for June 6 at 9 a.m. in Waukegan.

No valid license

Thomas D. Lukich, 30, of 29 Poplar in Fox Lake, was arrested for driving with a suspended license on May 22 at 1:27 a.m.

Police observed a white Pontiac traveling southbound on Rte. 83 at Lake Shore Dr. The officer had prior knowledge that the owner/driver was suspended.

Lukich said he had neither valid driver's license or proof of insurance. Police ran Lukich's identifiers through LEADS/NCIC and came back with a suspended license.

Lukich was released on a personal recognizance bond pending June 28 at 10:30 a.m. in Grayslake.

Michelle Kohler, 25, of 41677 Dot Pl. in Antioch, was arrested for driving with a suspended driver's license on May 21 at 12:04 a.m.

Kohler said she had neither a valid driver's license nor proof of insurance. She received citations for having only one red tail light, operating an uninsured vehicle, and driving with a suspended license.

Mark A. Sheridan, 30, of 40508 Lakeshore Dr. in Antioch, was arrested for driving with a suspended driver's license on May 20 at 11:06 a.m.

Police observed a teal Chevy with Sheridan driving. The officer had prior knowledge of Sheridan's suspension.

Sheridan said he was unaware his driver's license was suspended.

He was issued citations for driving with a suspended license and for failure to wear properly adjusted seat belts.

Miguel A. Cruz, 27, of 1916 Lewis in Waukegan, was arrested for driving with a suspended license on May 20 at 12:37 a.m.

He was observed driving a black Mazda with an inoperable tail light. Cruz related that he did not have a driver's license or proof of insurance. He was issued for driving with only one tail light, operating an uninsured vehicle, and driving with no valid driver's license.

He was released on a personal recognizance bond pending court date of June 14 in Grayslake.

LAKE VILLA

Illegal transport, drug paraphernalia

On May 13 at 1:39 a.m. Lake Villa police observed a young female coming out of the Shell Mart on Rte. 83 at Rte. 132 carrying seven cases of beer. She passed the beer to a female in a car, then got into another car and drove away. The second female, later identified as Angela M.

Kendziora, 19, of 2510 Linden Ln. in Antioch, put the beer in the trunk of her '93 Ford Tempo. The Shell employee stated he did not see any of the passengers of the car that received the beer. The female who purchased the beer showed him a valid license indicating that she was 26 years old. Kendziora stated, "I don't know the girl." She gave police permission to search her car, with negative results. She then gave police permission to search her purse, where they found two glass pipes used for cannabis, with a residue.

Two passengers, Adrian A. Biedzinski, 18, of 1215 Barbary in Round Lake Beach, and a 17-year-old male, also from Round Lake Beach, were charged with illegal transport of alcohol, ticketed and released, to appear on June 14 at Branch III in Grayslake.

Kendziora was charged with illegal transport of alcohol (driver), obstructed windshield and possession of drug paraphernalia. Her court date is also June 14, at 3 p.m. at Branch III. The car was towed, and police took into evidence the glass pipes, 36 12-ounce bottles of beer and a pair of metal handcuffs.

Wrong lane, uninsured

Lake Villa Police, responding to a driving complaint, observed William J. Haasjes, 33, of 1616 Lotus Dr., Round Lake Beach, driving recklessly, swerving and driving into oncoming traffic on Rte. 83 near Cedar Ave. Dispatch had indicated the driver as a "possible DUI." After stopping the driver, police determined that he was hearing impaired and unable to understand them. At the police station, he wrote down his sister's phone number. She arrived at the station to help police explain the charges against him. Haasjes was charged with improper lane usage, driving in the wrong lane and driving an uninsured vehicle. He was released to his sister's custody, pending court appearance on June 14 at 3 p.m. in Branch III, Grayslake.

Suspended license

Jeremy R. Perzigian, 19, of 1380 Park Place in Union Grove, Wis., was stopped by Lake Villa police at 8:57 p.m. on May 20 on Grass Lake Rd. near west Loon Lake. Police observed a 1988 black Chevy Z-28 going 60 mph in a 45 mph zone. There was no registration on the vehicle. The driver showed a Wisconsin driver's license and said he had no insurance. He could not locate temporary registration for the vehicle. He said the car belonged to Edwin J. Quist, 16165 Rte. 173 in Wadsworth. Dispatch checked, and Quist said Perzigian was to have the car. Perzigian's Wisconsin license was determined to be suspended. The car was towed, pending proof of ownership. Perzigian was charged with speeding, driving on a suspended "foreign" license, no valid registration and no insurance. He was released on an I-bond, with a court date of June 14 at 1:30 p.m. at Grayslake Branch III.

Reid A. Deckert, 23, of 21850 2nd St. in Lake Villa, was stopped by Lake Villa police who clocked his 1991 Jeep traveling 71 mph in a 50 mph zone westbound on Rte. 83 near Petite Lake Rd. at 2:02 a.m. on May 17. Police determined that his license was suspended. Because the driver admitted to having two beers at a bar, a field sobriety test was administered, which he passed. Deckert's driver's license was returned to the Secretary of State. He was charged with speeding and driving on a suspended license. He was released on a $1,000 bond and scheduled to appear on June 14 at 1:30 p.m. at Branch III.

Shannon L. Morrissey, 19, of 818 Butternut Ln. in Mt. Prospect, was observed driving with one headlight on Rte. 83 near Rte. 132 on May 14 at 1:47 a.m. When Lake Villa Police stopped her, the driver produced Cook County papers regarding license re-instatement. A computer check showed the license as suspended. Morrissey said the Cook County clerk told her she could drive if she kept her paperwork with her. She was told to check with the Secretary of State in regard to license issues. She was charged with driving with improper lighting and driving on a suspended license. Her court appearance is set for June 14 at 3 p.m. at Branch III.

LINDENHURST

DUI

Karina A. Davis, 19, of 3067 N. Hampshire Ln. in Waukegan, was arrested by Lindenhurst police on May 14 at 2:58 p.m. after a traffic stop at Rte. 45 and Country Place. Police found one unopened beer under a passenger seat, as well as 23 cans and 12 bottles of beer in the trunk of the car. A field sobriety test showed impairment. The PBT reading was .173, more than twice the legal limit for adults. At the police station, Davis refused a breathalyzer test. She was then served notice of a summary suspension of driving privileges. After a reading of her Miranda rights, Davis admitted to drinking two to four beers during the two hours and 45 minutes between 9 p.m. on May 13 and 1:45 a.m. on May 14. She was charged with improper lane usage, DUI and possession of alcohol by a minor. She gave her driver's license and $100 cash as bond. Her court date is set for June 7 at 9 a.m. in Room C-402, in Waukegan.

Sandals Ocho Rios - A Honeymoon Paradise

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

As some of you may know, my business partner Becky and I finally got married last year. A full week off for a honeymoon just wasn't going to happen, so we opted for a long weekend at a Sandals Resort.

Knowing Becky and I very well, Janet, our staff Sandals Resorts specialist, suggested of the 6 Sandals resorts in Jamaica, we would be most happy with Sandals Ocho Rios.

She was right on the money. It pays to consult an expert.

After our early morning flight was cancelled (yes, it happens to travel agents too), and then 1 1/2 hour bus ride from the Montego Bay airport, it was late into the night when we got to Sandals Ocho Rios. Still we were greeted with champagne and smiling faces. It was clear the staff of Sandals Ochos Rios truly enjoyed their resort and were anxious to share it with their guests.

We were escorted to our room by another smiling staff member who again expressed the Jamaican "no problem" philosophy. Anything we needed, just ask. No need to tip. Everything is included at Sandals.

The next morning we explored the grounds of this beautiful resort. Instead of leveling the jungle, Sandals built the resort within it. There were flowering trees, bamboo groves, birds and butterflies everywhere.

We made note of a small, but very private, swimming pool tucked away among the foliage. Since all pools are open 24 hours a day we thought nothing could be more romantic than a late night swim under a full moon surrounded by a forest of wild orchids. That night we found we were right.

Before our midnight swim we had dinner at Sandal's exclusive Italian restaurant, Valentino's, one of four we could choose from. No buffet here. Valentino's is a full fledged, upscale Italian restaurant with a very extensive gourmet class menu. I would highly recommend the open-faced scallops and ravioli in kiwi sauce. The best part, no prices on the menu, no check, no tip. It's all included.

Some of Jamaica's best SCUBA diving is on a reef just in front of the resort. SCUBA, as well as all the watersports at Sandals, are included.

Unfortunately I didn't have time to try Sandals' nearby private golf course, again free to sandals guests.

There's also a take the free shuttle to Sandals Dunns River resort 15 minutes away where you can try four more restaurants and even more watersports.

Other resorts may claim to be "all-inclusive", but Sandals is the only "ultra-inclusive". I will be back.

Historical society's plans to purchase 137-year-old house hinge on funding

By Becky Duba
Staff Reporter

The Lakes Region Historical Society is intending to purchase Antioch's oldest building, currently the home of the St. Ignatius Episcopal Church on 977 Main St.

The building was built in 1863, and if the funding for the sale comes through, the society plans to restore the building to as close as it can get to its original appearance.

"We first want to make sure the building is 100 percent safe," Bob Lindblad, president of the historical society, said.

The entire purchase hinges on the money from Dolly Spiering's estate.

"Dolly and her husband owned a tavern on the corner of Highway 45 and 173 for many years," Lindblad said. "And they were very lucky to be able to save a lot of money. She passed away in October."

In Spiering's will, it was stated that in the event of her death her money would go to her one daughter. But, if her daughter was to precede her in death, which is what happened, the estate was to be divided between the Rescue Squad, PM&L Theatre, the Senior Citizens Center and the Lakes Region Historical Society.

"Dolly is one of the few who decided to give back to the organizations that gave to her," Lindblad said. "She was a life member of the historical society, she loved to see plays at PM&L, and when you're 90 years old, the Rescue Squad comes in very handy."

St. Ignatius Episcopal Church, the current resident of the building, is in the process of building another church off of Deep Lake Rd. The group needs to sell the building in order to help pay for its new home.

"Basically, we decided to let the church stay in the building until next April," Lindblad said. "They'll pay us rent but we'll have already paid them for the building so they can continue working on their other construction."

If there is a hitch for some reason, and the historical society does not receive the money from the estate, the entire contract with the church is null.

"If we don't get the money, we don't get the house," Lindblad said. "There are a few great-nephews that might come forward. But, the lawyers have assured me that the way the will reads, there's really no way to contest it."

To restore the building, the society must decide, among other things, whether it will replace the outside walling with the buildings original flat board.

Also, a back part was added to the original frame and the society will need to decide if that needs to come down.

"If everything goes well, we plan to have the building hold some of our displays we can't currently show right now," Lindblad said. "We'd also like to have it hold resource material that would have information on genealogy and property."

May 22 was the last day for anyone to contest the will in court and though nothing is final, Lindblad foresees no problems. The society won't know for certain about the settlement until the end of the month.

'Mame' opens on PM&L stage

By BECKY DUBA
Staff Reporter

The musical "Mame," by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, is opens at the PM&L Theatre in Antioch on May 26 at 8 p.m.

Directed by Linda Hachmeister from Antioch, "Mame" is based on the novel "Auntie Mame" by Patrick Dennis. The title character is played by Alice Byrne of Lindenhurst. She is a well-off New York resident during the 1920s who has a wild, exploratory spirit.

The plot circles around the conflict that arises when her 10-year-old orphan nephew Patrick, played by Dominic Jackson from Twin Lakes, Wis., surprises Mame by coming to live with her.

One of the conflicts that surfaces is between Mame and her best friend Vera Charles, played by Mary Campbell from Ingleside, because Vera can't stand children.

The man Mame's about to marry, Murray Holmstrom from Bristol, Wis. has no qualms about the boy. But the problem is that Mame doesn't think she'll have time for a marriage.

Along with Patrick, comes his nanny Agnes Gooch, played by Suzanne Maginot from Antioch. The nanny doesn't take well to the wild happenings that go on in Mame's apartment. But, she inevitably falls under Mame's spell, making all well.

Playwrights Lawrence and Lee said about the musical, "We've had 10 plays on Broadway, but somehow 'Mame' is the show we've always looked forward to seeing again."

"Mame" is running at the PM&L Stage on May 26-27, June 2, 3, 9 and 10 at 8 p.m. and on May 28, June 4 and 11 at 2:30 p.m. Ticket prices are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors. Reservations can be made by calling 395-3055, or tickets may be bought at the box office located at 877 Main St.

Walk gardens, enjoy high tea

Garden gates will open to welcome visitors to take in the aroma and splendor of flowers and plants cultivated by five area residents.

The Garden Club will host, in its fifth year, a garden walk, though it should be noted that the distance between the five gardens makes a better drive than a walk.

Marjorie Krutsch, who is in charge of special events for the club, said, "This year we will be viewing many beautiful perennials and roses. We will also be visiting a butterfly garden and conservation area."

Reservations must be made by June 5 for the June 28 event. It begins at 9:30 a.m. and ends with high tea at approximately 11:30 at Krutsch's Lake Villa home.

Those wishing to participate in the garden walk, or who have interest in joining the club, should contact Krutsch at 356-3397.

This is the weekend it begins

With this being Memorial Day weekend, we all know it is the official start of our summer season complete with graduations, weddings, family reunions and hometown festivities. It is also the beginning of life as we have become accustomed to, living here on the Chain O'Lakes: tourist season. This marks the start of the season where residents become weekend prisoners in their own houses, hostages of their own yards. Our lakes become chock full of novice boaters, our highways transformed into parking lots.

The smarter native rarely ventures any further than the mailbox, or strays farther than the pier on those three days we all look forward to with such gusto during the week: Friday, Saturday and Sunday. A stroll through your neighborhood finds all the wise ones, at home, tending their lawns; a cruise along the shoreline shows the sensible soles who have left their boats on the Shore Station and their bottoms in a lounge chair to watch the wave runners take over our pristine waters. Sit back and enjoy the scene which will soon play out before your very eyes. This is when we are privy to watching the novice boaters, in their yachts the size of the new Disney Cruise ship, trying to maneuver under the small Grass Lake Rd. bridge on any given Saturday afternoon. They sit there, bellowing their horn expecting the darn bridge to part like the Red Sea so they can cruise under it—sorry guys, it ain't gonna happen.

This is Hooterville, not Chicago, and we don't stop the traffic on our streets for water vessels. But the scene gets even more amusing as that same crazed driver, realizing there is no way his boat is going to fit under the low bridge, tries to turn all 40 feet of his vessel around in a channel that's no wider than the average two-car garage—now that's entertainment.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

The waterways spill over with boats from Friday night until late Sunday afternoon, then it's ours again to enjoy. So as natives we accept this interruption to our daily lives and try to remember to keep enough bread and milk on hand so as to avoid the weekend parking space warfare you will encounter at any local grocery store. And come Monday, another ritual we have all come to accept before returning to our peaceful waterways is to clean up all the washed up debris from our shorelines.

We recycle the aluminum cans, discard the broken styrofoam coolers and try calling the cellular phone owner whose seaweed encrusted phone lies on our beach. Happy Memorial Day and here's to a safe summer season.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"—don't forget to call 395-6364.

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Osmond eases monetary burden on seniors

Prescription drug assistance, tax relief, and reduced vehicle registration fees are a few of the benefits seniors will receive due to the expanded Senior Circuit Breaker program supported by State Rep. Tim Osmond. Legislators from across the state looked on as the bill was signed into law by Governor Ryan.

"Across the state legislators have been overwhelmed by the positive response from this program. Seniors are thrilled with the direct benefits they receive from the Circuit Breaker Program," said Rep. Osmond (R-Antioch). "I am pleased that the success of this program will now benefit hundreds of thousands of additional seniors across the state."

In addition to providing additional benefits to seniors, the expanded circuit breaker program will increase the income eligibility threshold to $21,218 for one person, $28,480 for a couple, and $35,740 for a family of three.

Seniors who do participate in the program will receive the first $2,000 prescription medications for free each year, paying only an annual fee of $25 and a pharmacy fee of $3. After the first $2,000 the state will pay 80 percent of any additional medication costs.

According to Osmond, "As legislators, it is important that we do everything in our power to provide senior citizens with the assistance necessary to afford critical prescription medications. Hopefully, seniors will continue to take advantage of the benefits they can receive from this program."

The American Association of Retired Persons has offered its full support of the program.

According to Donna Ginther,

Government Relations Liaison for AARP, "AARP is grateful to Minority Leader Daniels and the House Republican caucus for championing the expansion (of) the Circuit Breaker and AABD programs. For many seniors the access that (this expansion) gives them to a broad range of medically necessary prescription drugs is a matter of life and death."

The program will also increase the income threshold to 100 percent of the federal poverty level for the Aid to Aged Blind and Disabled Program, allowing an additional 85,600 Illinoisans to become eligible for Prescription assistance through Medicaid without a spend-down requirement.

For additional information on the Circuit Breaker Program feel free to contact the office of Osmond at 838-6200.

Worried about paying their college tuition?

Sending a kid away to college for four years can cost more than $60,000.

College of Lake County

19351 West Washington Street, Grayslake, Illinois

We can save you a chunk of that. Interested?

CLC can help you save on tuition costs, even if your son or daughter attends another college.

- Courses offered days, evenings and weekends and online
- Grayslake and Lakeshore campuses, Southlake Educational Center and Adlai Stevenson High School

The savings work like this:

Many students at other colleges save on tuition by earning credits during CLC's summer session. CLC credits transfer easily to other institutions, and, with a little planning, the credits earned at CLC can add up to a full semester's credit. At a private college, that can amount to a savings of more than $7,500, if you consider tuition and fees and room and board.

Call (847) C-O-L-L-E-G-E for information
Registration is now underway. Classes start June 5.

*Figures based on information from the U.S. Department of Education on average tuition for private colleges and universities, plus average annual room and board costs of $4,500.

Golf galore!

Now that's more like it! Temperatures in the 70-80 degree range and a nice southerly breeze to accompany it.

Must mean it's time to tee it up! Well, there are plenty of opportunities to just that as tis the season for the infamous golf outing. And there's plenty of that to go around.

Here's a look at a few:

- Carmel High School will hold its Annual Golf Classic Wednesday, June 7 at the Marriott Lincolnshire Golf Club. The outing will offer both AM and PM shotgun starts. There are still openings so hurry and sign up! Proceeds from the outing will benefit Carmel's Athletic Program. For more information or to sign up, please contact Carmel High's Special Events Director, Mrs. Andrea Hillstad, at 327-6338.

- The 10th Annual Leonetti & Associates OMNI Classic, presented by American Airlines, Chicago Metallic and Cole Taylor Bank, will commence Monday, June 26 at Ivanhoe Golf Club, located at One Thorngate Dr. in Ivanhoe. Registration and a continental breakfast will begin at 8 a.m., followed by a clinic with LPGA Pro Donna Andrews at 10 a.m. A BBQ lunch on the veranda is then scheduled for 10:45 with a shotgun start for golf beginning at 12 noon. Following golf will be a cocktail reception at 5:30 p.m., followed by dinner, a live auction and raffle drawing at 6. For information and registration, call 537-7357, ext. 3.

- The Riverside Foundation Fourth Annual Golf Outing will be held Thursday, June 6 at Highland Park Country Club, located at 1201 Park Ave. West in Highland Park. The event will be best ball format with a 1 p.m. shotgun start.

A cocktail reception and awards presentation will be held at 6 p.m. The cost for the event is $175 per golfer.

For more information or to make a reservation, call (847) 634-3973.

- The Grayslake Colts Football Annual Golf Outing will be held Friday, June 23 at Antioch Golf Club. The event will serve as a fund-raiser for the Colts and ultimately helps the football program at the high school as well. Many Grayslake High faculty participated last year and had a blast! This year promises more of the same.

The cost is $75, which includes greens fees, electric cart, sandwiches, beverages and dinner after the outing. If possible, please get a four-some, for which the cost is only $300. Please call George Gallagher at 223-3138 or Dan Dillon at 223-8621, ext. 1021 for information or sign-ups.

- The Grayslake Chamber of Commerce holds a golf outing each year with the proceeds going to benefit Chamber sponsored events. This will be the Chamber's 30th annual outing which just keeps getting bigger and better each year. Look for the widespread exposure-promote your business through the Chamber of Commerce with a sponsorship, gift certificate or other prize donation from your company. The event will be held at Brae Loche Golf Course on June 7.

If you would like to participate as a sponsor, donate a prize, or have any questions, contact Shirley Christian at the Chamber office at 223-6888 or e-mail business@grayslakechamber.com.

Character building win for Lady Sequoit soccer

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

When the going gets tough, the tough get going.

It just took a little longer to materialize but the third-seeded Antioch varsity girls soccer team emerged with a 2-1 victory over visiting Crystal Lake South in the regional finals of the Barrington Sectionals Tuesday afternoon.

"We knew they were a good team and they definitely gave us a tough battle today," said Sequoit head coach Charlie Trout on the sixth-seeded Gators.

"After the first seven minutes of the game, we finally settled down and got things going. Our defensive pressure was excellent, especially in the second half."

And much of that defensive credit can be directed towards Jessica Enck, Lisa Chudd, Jourdan Phillips, Christy Plotz, Kristen Gamlin and Erica Koesling, all of who were quick to the ball and shut down any penetration and scoring opportunities by Crystal Lake South in the red zone.

As for the offense, Emily Niles and Lauren Hungarland took care business where that was concerned.

It was Niles' goal with 18:07 left in regulation that turned out to be the game-winner.

"Robyn (Mortenson) really hustled hard to the ball. I saw it, went for it, and put it in," said Niles, a junior midfielder who recorded her 20th goal of the season.

Mortensen had fed a beautiful cross and Niles headed it in.

Sequoit midfielder Emily Niles battles for the ball with a defender during regular-season action. Niles' second-half goal Tuesday proved to be the difference as Antioch prevailed 2-1 over Crystal Lake South in the regional title game in Antioch.—Photo by Steve Young.

"And our defense was great today in limiting them to scoring opportunities," added Niles. "We just want to keep putting it all together and play our best (Thursday against Jacobs)."

As for Hungarland, the sophomore midfielder gave Antioch a 1-0 lead after blasting a shot in from 10 yards out 11 minutes into the game. Her shot, which was assisted by Gamlin, was almost stopped as the Gator goalie leaped up and got her fingertips on the ball, but because of the velocity, the ball slipped past and trickled between the uprights.

The visitors answered with their lone goal seven minutes into the second half. But that's when the Sequoits speed and quickness took over before Niles' heroics.

"I think we dominated and really buckled down after Niles goal," added Trout. "We controlled the midfield and limited their offense from getting good looks at the goal."

Antioch keeper Erin Hall, a junior, stopped three shots en route to the victory in goal.

The Sequoits were also more active on the offensive, taking 13 shots on goal opposed to seven for the Gators.

Antioch, which improved to 14-6-3 overall with Tuesday's win, earned a first-round 6-0 victory over Crystal Lake Central last Friday. Gamlin scored twice while Niles, Lauren Cole, Becky Dellaria and Kelly Gofron each tallied once each.

The Sequoits will face second-seeded Jacobs in the sectional semifinals at Barrington 8 p.m. Thursday, May 24.

Warren serves up a sectional crown

Antioch finishes strong second

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

The Warren Blue Devils won their second consecutive sectional title in the Grayslake Sectional on May 20.

Warren won it with 33 team points, six ahead of second place Antioch.

The Devils also qualified several individuals including Josh Balderson and Kyle Offerdahl in singles and Bryan Pulido, Todd Lazarski, Rick Meyer and Matt Stubenvoll in doubles.

Balderson finished in second place after losing to Antioch's Magnus Boesen 6-4, 6-4 in the finals and Offerdahl finished third after defeating Jason Love of Antioch 6-4, 7-5.

"Qualifying for state is a nice way to close out Josh (Balderson's) career," said Head coach Greg Cohen.

Pulido and Lazarski finished first in doubles by beating teammates Meyer and Stubenvoll in the finals 6-2, 6-1.

Lazarski is one of the most successful doubles players in Warren's history as he has been a sectional champion with two different partners. (Last year he won it with Balderson).

"It was much more difficult to win it this year than last year," said Lazarski. "It was difficult switching partners at first but we clicked once we started playing together."

However, Cohen feels most satisfied as a coach with Meyer and Stubenvoll.

"They worked so hard, they did things right and they took advantage of an opportunity," said Cohen. "I'm as proud of them as any player I've ever coached."

"We've been setting our eyes on this goal all season and we got what we needed to get done," said Meyer.

The Devils will compete in the state tournament on May 25-27.

"We would like to finish in the top 30," said Cohen.

In addition to the aforementioned

Boesen and Love, the Sequoits will also be sending Jason Darfler and Jim Gramhoffer who placed third and qualified for the state meet by defeating Ben Tarver and Eric Zukowski of Grayslake 6-3, 6-3.

"It's been our goal to qualify at least one guy," said head coach Bryan Plinske. "When you qualify four it's great."

The four state qualifiers are the most for Antioch in at least a decade and the 10-3 overall record was the best in school history breaking last year's record of 7-6. Darfler and Gramhoffer also become the first doubles team to qualify in Plinske's five years at the school.

"What more can you ask for," said Plinske.

Plinske also has his sights set on a successful opening day at the state tournament on May 25.

"We're looking to get some points, win some opening round matches and survive the first day," said Plinske.

Rotsch makes grade in pole vault

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

David Rotsch's work paid off in the pole vault event for Antioch High.

Rotsch, a junior, qualified for the state meet at Eastern Illinois University with a 12 feet, 6 inch effort at Grayslake's sectional. He finished second to Richard Mardini of Lake Forest, who reached the height with fewer misses.

"He has done 13 feet in practice," Antioch coach Norm Hahn said of Rotsch.

Rotsch worked on his technique at camps for pole vaulters prior to this season. He is in his third season as a pole vaulter.

"Pole vaulting is still a little bit down. No one else made 12-6. I think the weather hurts everybody," Hahn said.

ACHS earned points from two in the discus, Jeff Giernoth was fifth with a 133-10. Also scoring points for ACHS at Grayslake Friday was Kared Stolarik in the discus with a 133-4 heave for sixth place.

"He has a lot of promise," Hahn said of Giernoth. "He has worked on switching his feet at the end of the throw. He is 6-3, 240, and will play football next year."

Antioch had 11 points, good for a tie for 16th out of 20 teams.

Prep Notes

Antioch High School will be holding two summer basketball camps. The first will run from June 12-15, the second June 19-22. The camp is for boys entering fourth through ninth grades. Fourth and fifth-graders will meet from 9-10:30 a.m.; sixth and seventh-graders from 10:30 a.m.-12 noon; and eighth and ninth-graders from 12:30-2 p.m.

The fee for both weeks is $60, for one week only $35.

The camp will be conducted by ACHS head boys basketball coach Jeff Dresser, among other ACHS coaching staff members as well as local high school athletes.

Payment is due at the time of registration. Make checks payable to Antioch Community High School.

Antioch Community High School

School will again host a series of open track and field meets for children ages three-and-under to 11. The date of the final meets is May 30. Registration begins at 5:30 p.m. with events starting at 6. The fee is $1.00 per child per night. Any questions can be directed to ACHS Athletic Director Steve Schoenfelder.

College Sports Beat

News and notes
The College of Lake County is currently seeking a mens golf coach for the fall 2000 golf season. Anyone interested should contact Gene Hanson at 543-2046.

Lindenhurst native Eric Eckenstahler, a pitcher for the Illinois State baseball team, was named Prairie Farms/Missouri Valley Conference Scholar Athlete of the Week. Eckenstahler, who carries a 3.00 GPA in finance, fired a complete game, one-hit shutout against Northern Iowa. He fanned 18 batters-the fourth highest single-game total in ISU baseball history and his one-hitter was the 10th in Redbird history.

To qualify for Prairie Farms/Missouri Valley Conference Scholar-Athlete of the Week, student-athletes must carry a cumulative GPA of 3.00, completed at least one academic year at a Valley institution, and must be at least a sophomore in academic standing. In addition, the athlete is evaluated on their athletic performance for a one-week period.

Eric then worked one scoreless inning out of the bullpen as the Redbirds defeated St. Joseph's 10-3 in non-conference action. His one strikeout in the inning pushed him passed Mike Rzdski atop the ISU strikeout list, breaking a record that stood for 49 years. The Redbirds are currently 21-26 on the season.

Kevin Geraghty of Lake Villa was named co-Most Valuable Player and co-Most Valuable Senior as part of the Knox College men's basketball team. Geraghty was also given the Harley Knosher Award for his exceptional sportsmanship and leadership qualities.

The 18th Annual Skip's Flesta Drive-In Reunion Car Show and Swap Meet plus collectible toy show/sale will take place at the Lake County Fairgrounds on Sunday, June 4. Hours for "Chicago's largest summer auto event" will be from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Parking is free with the general admission being $6.50. For further information, call (630) 876-1042 or visit Skip's website at SKIPSUSAMAIL@AOL.COM.

The Lake County Chiefs semi-professional football team is currently seeking players. Anyone interested call team owner Arlee Williams at 336-3790. Spring is upon us with the first of four preseason games beginning the last week in June. The regular season, which consists of eight games, begins in early fall. Spring training takes place on Lewis Ave. between Argonne and 10th St. by the North Chicago Police Station.

Lake County Baseball is looking for teams to form a new spring league for the 2000 baseball season. The league will be nationally franchised under NBC (National Baseball Congress) and playing in the league will lead to national competition in the NBC World Series.

The league will begin play as soon as the weather breaks, continue until early June, and be finished in time for teams to play tournament ball during the summer months. Any coach or manager of a 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 or 15 year old team that would like more information on this new league should contact Lake County Baseball at 945-9606.

Village of Long Grove melds past with present to create quaint shopping experience

by tim froehlig
staff reporter

In 1838, a group of German farmers settled the area now known as Long Grove. They named the village "Mutterscholz," because it reminded them of their Saar Valley homeland overseas.

The last of the Potawatomi Indian tribe settled in a village near Des Plaines and Half Day, soon to migrate west. French traders who had once inhabited the area had since left as well. This group of immigrants were hard-working people who continued speaking their native language, Plattdeutsch, until about World War I.

They worked on their farms, bought and manufactured supplies, made cheese and exchanged news with others who settled in the area. They also operated a cider mill, and built a church in 1847, which became the social and religious center of the community. Services are still held in the church to this day.

The 1920s and '30s marked a sleepy decline for the village. Historic buildings remained untouched by progress, and much of the town's activity quickly slowed. However, in the 1940s, a group of women opened an antique resale shop. This event was the catalyst for other businesses that quickly

Explore, learn and play at Kohl Children's Museum

Kohl's Children's Museum, 165 Green Bay Rd., Wilmette, offers children the opportunity to have fun exploring, playing and learning with its special events and permanent exhibits.

Now through May 31 see Eggs2Chicks, a special exhibit where children will be mesmerized by watching rare Black Java chicks hatch—afternoons Tuesday through Friday in May.

Visit between Monday, May 29 and Sunday, June 4 for Crazy Clayday! Children will explore the properties of clay as they use their hands and other tools to pound and shape it.

Paint with your Feet Frenzy! is planned for Monday, June 5 to Sunday, June 11. This is sure to be a hit with the kids as they will make footprints in the paint. Everyone will get their own colors and paint containers and put footprints across the paper.

Other permanent exhibits to see are All Aboard!, where children can play as the conductor of a reconstructed Chicago Transit Authority train car, push a tiny Brio wooden train in a trip through Chicago's rapid transit system, or drive a hot red sportscar in this exhibit about transportation.

Jewel-Osco, that's a child-sized Jewel-Osco store, designed to look exactly like one of Chicago's primary supermarkets, lets youngsters shop for groceries, be the cashier using a real scanner, and gain a great foundation for early math learning.

H2O, is a dynamic water play environment where they can explore the power of water as it rushes, flows and falls, carrying colorful balls along the journey.

And, Construction Zone, an unfinished, two-story house is this area's centerpiece. A system of buckets and pulleys helps children move rocks and building supplies as do tractors and wheelbarrows.

For more information on upcoming events, call the Kohl Activities Hotline at 251-7781.

Rock 'em, sock 'em moms?

Have we come the wrong way, baby? Apparently so, if the following article headline from last week's paper is any indication: "SOCCER MOM ASSAULTS JUNIOR REF."

For those of you who missed that little gem, a Lindenhurst soccer mom, apparently unhappy with the referees' decisions at her young daughter's soccer game, became verbally and physically abusive to a 14-year-old referee after the game, and was later arrested and charged with battery and disorderly conduct.

Personally, I found this story appalling. Whether or not that soccer mom ends up being convicted, I hope her peers revoke her "SOCCER MOM" minivan window sticker if she has one. Or get her a more appropriate sticker that says, "WARNING: SOCCER MOM...GOTTA PROBLEM WITH THAT?!"

And by the way, you have to admire anyone who still has a desire to be a referee in this day and age. Modern reffing has to rank right up there with "prison guard" for thankless jobs, if you ask me.

But back to mom violence. If this is a trend, I shudder to think what's next: "BALLET MOM GOES BALLISTIC AND SHREDS INSTRUCTOR'S TUTU WITH HER TEETH."

And if mothers are now going to take up ref baiting and violence at their children's games, there will soon be an increase in the number of Latrell Sprewell-type players in professional sports, only some of them will also have names like Jennifer and Heather.

I wish I could be sure that this was just an isolated incident, but I have a feeling it's not. Especially when statistics indicate that greater numbers of women are now being arrested for crimes involving violence.

LIFE'S A BEAR

So where is this macho behavior in women coming from...has someone dropped testosterone in the local water supply? Or are women starting to take feminism in the wrong direction?

While it's true that we have spent several decades working toward being treated LIKE men, I don't think the goal was ever to BECOME men. First of all, this will greatly limit our fashion choices. And secondly, I don't think we're cut out for it.

I know I'm not. I am a girly wuss, and proud of it. At a very young age, I realized that I did not like fighting. With two brothers, it doesn't take long to learn that if you hit them, they hit you back. Harder. This hurts, in case you hadn't noticed, so I quickly added punching to my mental list of things to avoid, along with my mother's meatloaf.

Of course, like most sibling relationships, not all squabbles can be avoided. So I devised a new method of fighting that I thought was quite ingenious: I would stand with my feet planted firmly, lean forward and flail my arms wildly in front of me in a circular motion, in hopes of preventing them from getting close enough to land a punch.

And it worked, although I'm not sure if it was my twirling arms or the fact that the sight of me doing this never failed to elicit howls of laughter from my brothers. Personally, I don't see what's so funny. I like to think that this fighting stance was actually a throwback to my Dutch ancestry on my grandmother's side. I believe it's entirely possible that they modeled the windmills after angry Dutch women.

Or not. I was never good at history, either.

Regardless, I make no apologies for my lack of gladiator ability. I enjoy being a girl (okay, a WOMAN if you're going to be picky), and I think the majority of my gender feels the same way.

So let's nip this trend in the bud before Mattel gets wind of it and comes out with new toys for our daughters like "PRO-WRESTLER BARBIE." Maybe we ought to start with a DOZEN MOM MARCH over to the Lindenhurst soccer fields where, provided our nail polish is dry, we could hold hands and sing our anti-fight song:

"We're gonna wash that manly behavior right out of our hair. We're gonna wash that manly behavior right out of our hair. We're gonna wash that manly behavior right out of our hair...and don't forget the conditioner!"

followed suit.

An ordinance has since been passed, guaranteeing the preservation of all historic landmarks in Long Grove. It also states that all new buildings must conform with the architecture of the early 1800s.

In the year 2000, downtown Long Grove is still one of Lake County's best kept secrets. Preserved to reflect the historic integrity of the community, the area located at Rte. 53 and Rte. 83 is now home to over 90 specialty shops, including five restaurants, clothing stores, gift shops and home furnishing stores.

On any given day, one can travel cobblestone walkways lining portions of the downtown area. Rows of colorful flowers blanket much of the area. During warmer months, visitors might see a horse and carriage emerging from the town's covered bridge. A picturesque water fountain provides a wonderful photo opportunity. Visitors quickly learn that one day does not allow enough time to experience all the town has to offer.

Whatever your pleasure may be, historic Long Grove likely has an answer. The Long Grove Confectionery offers chocolate creations that stimulate the sense of smell upon entering. The building was originally a schoolhouse, but according to manager Gina Tangen, the business has grown. With the exception of chocolate-dipped strawberries, all of the confectionery's creations are now made in Buffalo Grove. The business is family owned, and contains a window customers can look through to see items being made. Tangen noted how much she liked her job.

"Customers are happy because they're buying chocolate," she said. "(There's) nothing serious about chocolate."

The downtown area preserves history in more ways than one. Lucy & Ethel's is a shop specializing in women's clothing, with a unique twist. Nostalgia runs rampant here, as the walls are lined with pictures and plaques autographed by celebrities such as Elvis Presley, Lucille Ball and Frank Sinatra, to name a few. Scripts from television show episodes can be purchased as well.

Upstairs from Lucy & Ethel's is a store called Nifty 50s, which is designed to look like an old soda shop. Marilyn Monroe, James Dean and Buddy Holly are among the collectibles available, along with other memorabilia focusing on the 1950s, '60s and '70s.

For those who enjoy works of art, The Studio of Long Grove offers award-winning paintings, sculptures, jewelry and other gifts. Over 6,000 feet of limited edition sculptures and paintings are on display. Among the studio's featured artists is Alush Shima. Originally from Albania, Shima was forced to paint in secret for over 15 years, after the Albanian government confiscated and destroyed 150 of his paintings.

He began painting on anything he could find, including sugar sacks. After the fall of communism in his homeland, Shima became a national hero for his courage.

Looking to spruce up your home or garden? Try Mangel's, located at 421 Robert Parker Coffin Rd. Open since 1887, Mangel's has survived the test of time. The wooden building is lined with skylights and several stained glass windows. Candles, antiques, flowers and outdoor items are all for sale.

Even dog lovers can feel at home in historic Long Grove. The Dog House, in business for almost 50 years, has a little bit of everything to spoil your pet. A sign on the front door reads "Dogs Welcome."

"We encourage people to bring the dogs in and try the clothing on," said employee Brenda Reilly. The store specializes in unique items such as leather or rhinestone dog collars, and protective pet clothing for extreme weather conditions.

"We try to stay in the mode of things you can't get at regular dog stores," said Reilly.

One of Long Grove's oldest buildings is the Village Tavern, open since 1849. Originally a wagon repair and blacksmith shop for settlers traveling along the Old McHenry-Wheeling Trail, the tavern now goes by the motto, "Where the '20s meet the millennium." In 1928 the shop was purchased by George Umdenstock, and turned into a tavern. During the Prohibition Era they served ice cream instead of alcohol.

Today it is a bar and full-service restaurant where lunch and dinner are available, including all-you-can-eat specials Tuesday through Friday evenings.

The downtown area is a 21st Century community offering the best of both worlds—past and present. Visitors from all over the country come to see small-town charm in a village preserving its historic roots. It remains secluded, and only those who have experienced it firsthand can truly appreciate what historic Long Grove has to offer.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

'Once This Island' a fine inaugural for Metropolis Performing Arts Centre

If the successful remounting of the musical "Once This Island" by highland Park-based Apple Tree Theatre is any indication, the long-awaited new Metropolis Performing Arts Centre that has blossomed in downtown Arlington Heights is destined for great success.

The $22 million complex, at 111 W. Campbell St., promises to be a major venue for live theater, music, dance, comedy and cabaret-style entertainment, providing compelling options to the cultural scene.

With joyful music by Steven Flaherty and lyrics by Lynn Ahrens, "Once This Island" is based on "My Love, My Love," by Trinidadian novelist Rosa Guy. Directed by Peter Amster and featuring Caribbean-inspired choreography by Randy Duncan, it tells the legend of a young peasant girl who leaves her village in search of a lover. She is sent on a treacherous journey by the island's gods to test the strength of her love.

Petite Karla Beard rises as Ti Moune, the orphan who leaves her adopted family to pursue an unlikely liaison with the handsome, wealthy son of the island's leading citizen.

The 12-member cast, assuming multiple identities, is the very picture of animation, singing and dancing its way through nearly 20 songs, including the rousing "Mama Will Provide" and the moving "The Human Heart." A live rhythm band, led by Tom Murray, performs from a stage-right enclosure.

"Once This Island" will run through May 28. Ticket information is available at 577-2121.

Down the road, the 310-seat Metropolis is scheduled to restage "Old Wicket Songs" (Oct. 18-Nov. 12) and "Syncopation" (Feb. 21-March 18, 2001) — both from Apple Tree.

Metropolis also will host Chicago's Second City comedy troupe, starting June 15. Other attractions will include the Metropolis Youth Symphony, Joel Hall Dancers, the Ravinia Festival's Rising Stars of Jazz program and performances by Karen Mason, Liz Callaway and Jeff Hamar. —Tom Witom

SPECIAL EVENT

Donut Day is June 2-3

The 62nd annual Salvation Army Donut Day is Friday and Saturday, June 2-3. For more than six decades, money raised on Donut Day has helped millions of men, women and children in the Chicago metro area.

This year, when you see a Salvation Army tagger, give your dollars to donuts on Salvation Army Donut Day and make your two cents count.

And, the Army's popular Donut Day "Celebrity Corner" will be held Friday, June 2, in front of the State of Illinois Building from 9:30 a.m. - 3 p.m. Celebrities from throughout the Chicago-area will be on hand to greet donors. This year, "Doc" Morrissey's Traveling Medicine Show" is a special featured attraction at noon!

An evening with Olympic-hopeful George Williams

On June 3, a benefit will be held for Olympic-hopeful & FEI trainer and rider, George Williams. George is the director of the Tempel Lipizzan Corporation and the Tempel Dressage Training Center. He is also the Vice President of the United States Dressage Federation and Co-Vice Chairman of the USET Dressage Committee. He has previously been on the United States Equestrian Team (USET) Long List.

The evening will begin at 6 p.m. at Tempel Farms, 17000 Wadsworth Rd., Wadsworth. The event will feature a Pas de Deux with George and his mount, Esquire, paired with Linda Leffingwell and a Lipizzan stallion. George will also give a long-lining demonstration. There will be a tasting of several outstanding red and white wines. Hors d'oeuvres will be served. A silent auction will be held as well as a raffle.

Advance purchase tickets are $30. At the door price is $40. Please contact Alice Guzik for further information. Phone 312/642-2960, fax 312/751-8799, or e-mail: lguzik1015@aol.com.

THEATRE

'Bridge to Terabithia'

Christian Youth Theatre (CYT) presents an exciting musical production of "Bridge to Terabithia," the Newbery Medal award-winning book by Katherine Paterson.

Performances will be at the Christian Arts Auditorium, 2500

Dowie Memorial Dr., Zion. Matinees are at 2 p.m. on Saturdays and Sunday, May 27-28. Evening performances are offered at 7 p.m. May 26-27. Tickets for reserved seating may be purchased in advance from the box office by calling 815/455-9207. The suggested ticket donation is $7 for adults and $6 for children 12 and under.

'Moon over Buffalo' at Village Theatre

The Village Theatre of a Palatine Inc., is pleased to announce the final production of its 50th season, "Moon Over Buffalo" directed by Sally Moomey and produced by Larry Boller.

All performances are at Cutting Hall, 150 E. Wood St., Palatine. Performance dates are May 26-27, June 2-4, 9-10, 16-18. Friday and Saturday performances are at 8 p.m. Sunday performances are matinees at 2:30 p.m. Reserved seating is available by calling the theatre box office at 358-2506. Tickets are $12.

"Moon Over Buffalo" is written by Ken Ludwig, who also wrote "Lend Me A Tenor" and was the hilarious show that brought Carol Burnett back to Broadway.

Theatre group forming

A new non-profit theatre troupe is forming in the Vernon Hills area. Whether you like to act, direct, work behind the scenes or dabble in a little bit of everything, this group is for you. We are currently looking for members to join us. Children are welcome to come along. For more information please call Mike and Pam Ross at 816-9066.

'Love Letters' canceled

The talent agency coordinating the rescheduled performance of "Love Letters" on August 4 at the Hemmens Cultural Center has announced that it cannot recast the female co-star at this time and, therefore, "Love Letters" is being canceled.

As previously announced, Hollywood actor John Saxon graciously stepped in to replace Robert Wagner when Wagner and his wife, Jill St. John, had to cancel their originally scheduled May 19 performance at the Hemmens due to European filming commitments.

The Hemmens sincerely regrets any inconvenience this cancellation of "Love Letters" may cause patrons. Those holding tickets will receive a full refund and should call The Hemmens' Box Office at 931-5900. Box Office hours are 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Monday-Friday and 12-4 p.m. Saturday.

Deerfield Fine Arts Festival set for June

The same producer who brings you the top-ranked Chicago Tribune Magnificent Mile Art Festival and the North Shore Art festival is proud to welcome the return of the 3rd Annual Deerfield Fine Arts Festival. On Saturday and Sunday, June 17 and 18, Deerfield Rd. will be transformed into an open-air art gallery, featuring the artwork of over 200 award-winning artists. Show times are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and admission to the festival is free.

One of the greatest attractions drawing people to this event is the diversity of the artwork that will be on display. Mediums exhibited include oil and watercolor paintings, fine ceramics, stained glass, handmade jewelry, mosaics, photography and much more.

Live musical entertainment is also included in this weekend's art festivities. Hungry festival-goers will enjoy international food pavilions serving both local and exotic cuisine.

The festival will take place outdoors at Deerfield Rd. and Robert York Ave., Deerfield from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information on this free family event, call 945-4660. You can also preview the festival by visiting our website at www.ArtFestival.com.

'Mame' opens at PM&L Friday

Mame' is coming to Antioch and will arrive at the PM&L stage, 877 Main St., Antioch, May 26 at 8 p.m. Continuing show dates are May 27, June 2-3, 9-10 at 8 p.m. and May 28, June 4, and 11 at 2:30 p.m.

"Mame," played by Alice Byrne from Lindenhurst, is a happy happening. She is well-to-do, lives in New York at the peak of the Twenties, and is surprised by a "wonderful present," an orphan nephew named Patrick.

check it out!

Now, 10-year-old Patrick (Dominic Jackson from Twin Lakes, WI.) needs his aunt, and this is something new for "Mame"... to be needed. It changes her life. It brings her into sharp conflict with her best friend, Vera Charles (Mary Campbell from Ingleside), a multi-martini grande dame of the legitimate theatre... for Vera can't stand children. The man "Mame" is about to marry (Murray Holmstrom from Bristol, WI.) is perfectly willing to take on the boy as a bonus, but "Mame" doesn't think she'll have time for marriage. The boy's nanny, Agnes Gooch, played by Suzanne Maginot from Antioch, doesn't approve of the irrepressible things which go on in "Mame's" apartment, and yet she inevitably falls under her spell.

As the rest of the plot unfolds, audiences will be captivated by the talented, energetic cast directed by Linda Hachmeister from Antioch. The music is melodic and catchy with "Mame," "My Best Girl," "Bosom Buddy," and "If He Walked Into My Life" some of the best known. Music director is Rick Wilson from Gurnee. The spirited dance numbers are choreographed by Alice Byrne, Suzanne Maginot, Lin Hendrickson from Round Lake and Chris Jones from Lindenhurst.

Playwrights Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee stated "We've had ten plays on Broadway, but somehow "Mame" is the show we've always looked forward to seeing again!"

Reservations can be made by calling 395-3055 or by coming to the box office. Ticket prices are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors.

Romeo Sobrepena, Lindenhurst stars as Ito, Suzanne Maginot, Antioch portrays Agnes Gooch, Dominic Jackson, Twin Lakes, WI. is Patrick Dennis and reclining is Alice Byrne, Lindenhurst, as "Mame."

Storyteller spins magic Master storyteller Donald Davis returns to Highland Park Tuesday, May 30, to spin his magical tales of the art of living in the rural hill country of North Carolina. Davis will appear at Elm Place School, 2031 Sheridan Rd. in downtown Highland Park.

Sponsored by the Suburban Fine Arts Center, Davis tells stories about his third grade teacher Miss Daisy who taught him to make paper planes and his Uncle Frank who cut up frozen dogs and sewed them together again backwards. Davis has been a keynote storyteller at the National Storyteller Festival in Jonesboro, Arkansas.

Appearing at Elm Place School for just the one night, tickets are $10 for adults in advance and $15 at the door. Children pay $7 per ticket. Show time is 7:30 p.m.

The SFAC is a not-for-profit art center and art school, offering more than 90 classes every week in all different media.

For more information or to purchase tickets, call the SFAC at 432-1888.

Bellini's Italian Restaurant & Steakhouse

847-367-8088

Bellini's Italian Restaurant and Steakhouse, located at 1765 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville, is not only a mecca for lovers of fine Italian cuisine, but it has become the newest area entertainment hot spot.

Besides serving lunch and dinner, offering some of the best Italian food, steaks, chops, seafood and chef's specials, including a popular banquet service for that special event seating up to 225, Bellini's has an entertainment schedule that highlights one or more top notch musical events every evening.

Tuesday and Wednesday, starting at 7p.m. DJ music is featured along with "Deena", live singing, country, pop and more; as well as a chance to meet our guest bartender.

The incredible Warren Beck and his piano entertain in the lounge on Thursday, Friday and Sunday evenings.

You are invited to dine on Saturday nights to the smooth music of the Jazzmin Trio from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Friday and Saturday, from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m., is Karaoke Time. Every Friday have musical fun with Horsin' Around. Evening Star and Horsin' Around rotate on Saturday.

Lovers of the "Big Band" sound will be sure to be at Bellini's on June 11 when Seymour's Big Band will be appearing. There will be a $7.50 cover charge or you can enjoy "Big Band" music free with dinner.

Starting at the end of May, local vocalists will be doing a live dinner show on Friday and Saturday evenings.

'Dinosaur' provides fun family entertainment

Finally, a family movie that has a little something for everyone! There's action, suspense, adventure, friendship and romance in Disney's "Dinosaur."

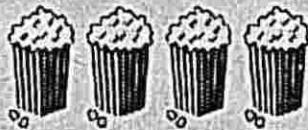

Set 65 million years ago during the late Cretaceous period, "Dinosaur" tells the tale of Aladar (the voice of D.B. Sweeney), an iguanodon separated from his family prior to birth when his egg is stolen from his mother's nest by a scavenger. Through a series of events, the egg ends up in a rain forest far from home.

A group of lemurs finds the egg, and curious, motherly Plio (Alfre Woodard) goes right up to it, despite warnings by her father Yar (Ossie Davis). The computer animation is amazing, with details right down to the lemurs' hair blowing in the breeze. Watching the egg crack open and seeing the birth of Aladar was sweet. Seeing the reaction of Yar when he saw it was a dinosaur was priceless.

In the Tarzan-like storyline, the lemurs "adopt" Aladar and make him one of their own. The courting ritual of the lemurs is a funny scene, sadly interrupted by a life-threatening meteor shower.

"Dinosaur" tells the tale of Aladar, left, an iguanodon who is discovered at birth by a family of lemurs. After a meteor shower destroys the rain forest where they live, Aladar and the lemurs join a herd of dinosaurs looking for the nesting grounds.

Aladar and four of the lemurs manage to survive and catch up with a herd of dinosaurs seeking refuge at "the nesting grounds." In a cute moment, little lemur Suri (Hayden Panettiere), awe-struck by the creatures, says, "Look at all the Aladars!"

The leader of the pack is Kron (Samuel E. Wright), a tough guy who believes only the strong should survive and has no compassion. The storyline is setup from there, with the audience only wondering when and how the ultimate confrontation will come about between hard-headed Kron and compassionate Aladar. Kron's sister, Neera (Julianne Margulies), sees through her brother's attitude and realizes that a leader can be both strong and compassionate.

So yes, it's predictable, but it's chosaur, who is ready to give up before she meets Aladar. The pair of ladies serve to add a touch of wisdom and love at needed points in the story. Reese, who currently plays "Tess" on television's "Touched by an Angel," has some of the funnier lines of the movie and her voice seems to fit her character the best. Her sidekick is Uri, a cute ankylosaur who doesn't speak.

The musical score is beautiful, setting the scene whether dramatic, light-hearted or romantic. James Newton Howard will no doubt be nominated for an Academy Award for the score.

Carnotaurs, vicious dinosaur-eating creatures, add scariness to the film, which may not be appropriate for all ages. This violence is most likely what led to the film's PG rating.

For an entertaining afternoon with a cute and wholesome story, I give "Dinosaur" four popcorn boxes out of five.

a good tale of the power of hope. Aladar, who knows only of his "family" in the rain forest, doesn't understand Kron's "survival of the fittest" mentality and stays at the back of the herd with the older dinosaurs. Baylene (Joan Plowright) is a brachiosaur who is the last of her kind left after the meteor shower. Alongside her is Eema (Della Reese), a tired styra-

Come romancin' to Kirk Players' Romantic Comedy

Kirk Players will present its final show of the 34th season with Bernard Slade's "Romantic Comedy," a light-hearted confection chock full of rich humor. For the first time in Kirk Player's history, audiences will have the opportunity to see the how on either of two weekends! Curtain goes up on the Mundelein High School stage at 8 p.m. on Fridays, June 9 and June 16, and Saturdays, June 10 and 17.

If you have ever experienced love at first sight, the pain of losing your heartthrob, the excitement of wedding day or even the awkwardness of falling in love on the day of your wedding with someone other than your betrothed, you will not want to miss this laughter-filled mature comedy. The story revolves around the plight of Jason Carmichael, playwright extraordinaire and very full of himself, and Phoebe Craddock, his younger creative protégé and ex-schoolteacher, who fall in love, indescribably madly in love, and take the next 14 years to ahem, well, let's just say as the great bard once said, "all's well that ends well!"

To celebrate the excitement of the wonderful season of love, the Kirk Players are extending a special offer with "Romantic Comedy." Come and enjoy the show with your significant other and be eligible to win a free one-night stay in one of the Fantasy Suites of Mundelein's Ramada—Grand Court Inn. Offer is available to patrons 21 and over.

So be sure to lock in one of the four performance dates and be ready to laugh and cry and simply smile as Jason and Phoebe find their way into love! Tickets are available by calling John Lynn at 566-6594 or by logging onto the Kirk Players web site at www.geocities.com/kirkplayers. Ticket prices are $7 for adults, $5 for senior citizens and $3 for children 12 and under. As the show is a mature comedy we advise discretion with youngsters.

Aries — March 21/April 20

While you want to take charge when it comes to a family matter this week, Aries, don't. You're not the best person to handle this situation. Let someone more qualified take the lead, and pay attention to what this person does. You're sure to learn a lot. That special someone needs your help late in the week. Do what you can.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Try not to be stubborn when out with friends early in the week. Don't make all of the decisions based on what you want; listen to what others have to say. If you don't, this could be the last time you're invited. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Be there for him or her.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

A problem at work puts you in a sticky situation. Don't flounder in indecision. You have to take control and work to resolve the matter. Do what you think is best. The higher-ups will be impressed with your abilities; they're sure to reward you. A good friend asks you for romantic advice. Be honest with him or her.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

In confidence, a loved one turns to you for advice about a personal matter. While you want to talk to others about this, don't. This person is trusting you to keep things to yourself. Just give him or her your honest opinion, and try to help with the situation. Your efforts will be appreciated. Virgo plays a key role.

Leo — July 23/August 23

A personal decision makes you the center of attention with loved ones early in the week. While you're somewhat embarrassed, enjoy the spotlight. You certainly deserve it. A good friend reveals his or her true feelings for you. Let this person know how you feel too. This could be the beginning of something special.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

Several people are counting on you to finish an important project this week, Virgo. Don't let them down. Stay focused, and work diligently. That's the only way to get things done. Everyone will be impressed with your efforts. Leo plays a key role.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

An acquaintance tries to pull the wool over your eyes on Wednesday. Don't let him or her. You're too smart to fall for the lines that this person is feeding you. Call his or her bluff right away. A close friend takes you out late in the week. Enjoy yourself!

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

Don't monopolize that special someone's time early in the week. He or she has a lot to do. Let this person get things done. That way, he or she can devote the rest of the week to you. If you don't, you're sure to alienate him or her. Aquarius plays an important role late in the week.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

You really put your foot in your mouth when meeting a new person this week, Sagittarius. Don't try to ignore your remarks. If you want to form any sort of relationship with this person, just acknowledge your mistake, and explain yourself. He or she will understand.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't be too harsh on a close friend who gets you involved in a difficult situation. This person doesn't mean to cause you any trouble. He or she honestly thinks that you will enjoy it. If you stay calm, you'll see that things aren't really as bad as they seem. Pisces plays a key role on Tuesday.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't get upset with a loved one for doing something that you don't approve of, Aquarius. This person is old enough to make his or her own decisions. Try to respect that. A good friend needs your help with a personal matter. Do what you can for him or her. Your efforts will be appreciated.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

You have a busy week ahead of you. Don't let the pressure get to you. Remember to see the humor in all of the things that happen. They are quite funny if you stop to think about them. A family member introduces you to his or her love interest. Try to be nice — even though you don't like this person.

Celebrate opening of 'Habitat Africa! The Forest' at Brookfield

Brookfield Zoo celebrates the opening of its newest exhibit, Habitat Africa! The Forest, during three weekends, on June 2-4, 9-11 and 16-18 from noon to 4 p.m. Come out to the zoo and enjoy the splendor of Congolese culture with central African music, dance, storytelling and fun activities for the entire family. The public opening of the exhibit also kicks off the Rhythm & Roots Festival.

The exhibit recreates the Ituri Forest, located in central Africa's Democratic Republic of Congo. About two-thirds the size of the state of Illinois, the Ituri is one of the most pristine rain forests in the world with an incredible diversity of wildlife and plants. Through the stories, cultures and shared perspectives of those who actually live and work in the Ituri Forest, zoo guests will learn about the relationships among the plants, animals and people that inhabit this spectacular region. The exhibit, located on 3.6 wooded acres, features nearly 20 species of animals including okapi, dwarf crocodile, forest buffalo, African lungfish and red river hog.

Habitat Africa! The Forest officially opens to the public on June 2 with special guests from the Democratic Republic of Congo attending the 10 a.m. ceremony. To celebrate the opening, zoo staff has selected performance groups that can accurately portray Congolese and central African dance and music.

Some highlights of Habitat Africa! are the UMOJA African Arts Company, a consortium of artists who represent Africa. Members dress in full traditional costumes that are handmade from animal skins, feathers, shells and pearls. The Congo Concert will offer guests the opportunity to play traditional musical instruments of central Africa. There will be interactive displays featuring food, fashion, dance, beekeeping and music.

The summer-long Rhythm & Roots Festival continues every Friday, Saturday and Sunday through August 27 from noon to 4 p.m. Each weekend features entertainment and activities from two different regions of the world.

Guest will receive a gate handout detailing dates, time and locations of all the public events. Activities are free with regular zoo admission: $7 for adults and $3.50 for children ages 3-11 and seniors 65 and over. Children under 2 are free. Parking is $4. For more information, call Brookfield Zoo at (708) 485-0263, ext. 879.

Sheriff gets the highest pay increase

The Lake County Board approved a resolution to increase the salaries of several people on the county payroll.

The highest salary jump is the county sheriff's, who currently makes $108,760. In 2001, the salary will be $111,888 which is a $3,128 increase. And in 2002, it will jump another $3,222 to a total of $115,110.

The board members themselves received only a $1,000 increase, going from $29,000 to $30,000 in 2001, with another $1,000 to be added in 2002.

The board chairman received a $2,000 jump from $58,000 to $60,000 for 2001, which continues with a $1,000 increase in 2002 for a total sum of $61,000. The chairman carries many more duties, some of which include approving liquor licenses and checking for violations.

The treasurer's salary was only increased $125 in 2001. But for 2002, it was increased by $2,617 to a total of $89,848.

The Lake County Circuit Clerk, Coroner, and Recorder of Deeds each increased to $87,231 in 2001 and $89,848 in 2002.—By Becky Duba

Katelyn Dote, 11, of Ingleside won an essay contest sponsored by Lakeland Publishers, Inc. asking children age 12 and under to tell why their mom is the best. Katelyn is pictured with her mom, Colette Dote.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

'Why my mommy is the best' contest winner

In honor of Mother's Day, Lakeland Newspapers held a "Why my mommy is the best" contest. And, the winner is 11-year-old Katelyn Dote's mom.

All kids under 12 were encouraged to enter, telling why their mommy is the best in 50 words or less.

Katelyn Dote wrote, "My mommy is the best because she is always there for me. My mom is nice, funny, loving, kind, smart, and everything else that's good."

Katelyn Dote's mom, Colette, works at St. Bede's Catholic school in Ingleside as a kindergarten teacher's aide. Her only daughter also attends the fifth grade in the private school.

"Because we're both there, it gives the students a chance to get to know both of us real well," Colette Dote said.

Another thing the mother and daughter have in common is their love of softball.

"Katelyn now plays the outfield in a league," she said. "I used to play when I was younger too. It's something we both enjoy a lot."

Katelyn Dote said, "My mom is always there to help me when I need her. She helps me with my schoolwork and when I'm down, she makes me laugh."

Both mother and daughter love nature and animals.

"We have one dog, Happy, and two fish," Katelyn Dote said.

In her essay, she wrote, "I hope that I can grow up to be just like her! Even if my mom doesn't win, she will always be the best."

Because of the entry, her mother will receive a gift certificate to a Hot Spots restaurant. Lakeland Newspapers thanks all those children who took time to enter the contest and honor their mothers with their writing.

Elderly are high risk group for depression

Symptoms of depression are not a normal part of the aging process

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

Mary, 81, sits alone at her dining room table idly picking at a speck of dried food on the plastic table cloth. Her tiny apartment is swathed in darkness—the drapes are pulled tightly shut, even though it is sunny, early afternoon. The television is on, but Mary doesn't really watch it. The voices serve the purpose of keeping her company. Eventually, her head droops in slumber. She wakes up hours later after the sun has disappeared.

Although not clinically diagnosed, Mary displays many symptoms of depression. Unfortunately, she refuses to admit she is depressed. In "her day" people didn't tell anyone about those kind of problems. If they did it meant they were "crazy."

According to statistics by the National Institute on Mental Health, more than 2 million Americans age 65 and older suffer from some type of depression. Surprisingly, the suicide rate for the elderly is higher than the suicide rate for the overall population. Research indicates that white males 85 and older are at the highest risk. In 1996, the rate of suicide for this particular group was six times as high as that of the general population.

Depression among the elderly is incorrectly perceived by many as part of the natural aging process in which physical, social and economic situations dramatically change. Because of this, depression is often not diagnosed or treated properly in the elderly.

This illness is largely predominant in nursing homes. The rate of major or minor depression suffered by nursing home residents varies between 15 to 25 percent. Donna Jackson, director of social services at Victory Lakes Nursing Home in Lindenhurst, partially attributes this to the fact that "reality hits" when someone is placed in a nursing home.

"The realization that they are old

Break Down

FINAL PART OF A SERIES

hits home for many of our residents," commented Jackson, who pointed out that 90 percent of Victory Lakes residents eventually accept placement in the nursing home.

Additional triggers include the fact that advanced age to many means a diminishing sense of importance and productiveness in society; advanced age also means loss of important support systems due to the death of a spouse, sibling, friend or even a child.

"Sixty percent of our residents have lost a spouse or outlived a child," said Jackson, a licensed social worker who also has a background in the mental health field. "We try to sensitize our staff to the fact that our residents have suffered many losses."

Jackson said there is a very high association of depression with stroke victims because of the traumatic change in their lifestyles. Motor skills, language, cognitive abilities and even family relationships are affected by a stroke. Brain chemicals are also altered, which leads to a biological tendency for depression.

Other illnesses such as cancer, Parkinson's Disease, Alzheimer's and dementia have also been found to have high incidence of co-occurrence with depression in the elderly.

Social impacts, such as retirement, relocation and children growing up and moving away play an important role in elderly depression as well.

"Strong support systems are very important to the elderly," said Jack-

Answers in bold boxes indicate depression. Although differing sensitivities and specificities have been obtained across studies, for clinical purposes a score of >5 points is suggestive of depression and should warrant a follow-up interview. Scores >10 are almost always depression.

Grant helps exhibits at museum

By Becky Duba
Staff Reporter

The newly renamed Lake County Discovery Museum has received $245,000 of a state grant to help support its new exhibit project.

The museum was one of 45 within the state to receive a portion of the $10.4 million in grant funding from Governor George H. Ryan.

The museum is a part of the Lake County Forest Preserve. The Preserve President, Carol Calabrese, was pleased to receive the money, "We are grateful for the grant support and honored to be listed among some of Chicagoland's top public museums to receive funding. This new resource will benefit our Lake County community and help make our new interactive and educational Museum exhibits more accessible to everyone."

Funding for the Museum's new exhibits also originates from several major corporations in the County, along with individual contributors.

"Currently, the museum is free to all," Kate Desulis, Visitor Service Manager, said. "But, after June 18th there will be an entrance fee that has not yet been determined."

One of the new exhibits at the museum is the Vortex Roller Coaster.

"This is an 8-minute ride that whooshes you 10,000 years back into Lake County's history," Desulis said. "You sit in roller coaster seats that rock and sway with the video."

The Mall of History is also new. It is where patrons can "shop" for ideas with a concept card.

"A concept card is basically a credit card," Desulis said. "You can insert it into any display and watch the exhibit begin displaying audio and visual shows."

At the museum, explorers can walk on real planks from the Old Plank Road and then hop on a Lotus Boat, which were wooden boats used on the Chain of Lakes.

"It gives an idea of what it was like on the Chain around the turn of the century," Desulis said.

The "Bringing the World Home" exhibit greets guests with Paul Bunyon and his big, blue ox, Babe. It holds the nation's largest post card collection. Displaying a thorough history of the postcard up to today.

"At the end of the exhibit," Desulis continued, "Guests can then send someone a postcard via the Internet using our computers."

Adding to these exhibits, that open June 18th, the museum also has an 11-foot tall mastodon—an extinct mammal similar to an elephant with brown hair and long tusks. Mastodons roamed Lake County 10,000 years ago.

"The museum has some mastodon bones on exhibit, so we got the display to go with it," Desulis said. "And right now, our mastodon still remains without a name."

One other exhibit on display now through July features "Star Wars."

"We believe our new exhibits project will serve as a national model for other public museums across the country who are seeking to be more relevant to their communities," said Janet Gallimore, director of the museum.

Taste of Lake County planned for Memorial weekend

By SANDY HARTOGH
Staff Reporter

This Memorial Day weekend, Lake County residents can loosen their belt buckles to make room for the first annual Taste of Lake County to be held at Lambs Farm in Libertyville.

Sponsored by the Lake County Millennium Commission and the Lake County Restaurant Association, this delicious event features over 25 restaurants countywide, along with musical entertainment, children's activities and locally brewed beers.

May 26 will bring David Clayton-Thomas and Blood Sweat & Tears to the main stage at 8 p.m.

The Spinners take the stage on May 27 at 9 p.m., and Wade Hayes wraps things up on May 28 at 9 p.m.

Admission to the Taste and the concerts is free, however a $5 parking fee will be collected to benefit Lambs Farm.

The event will begin May 26 at 4 p.m., and May 27-28 at 11 a.m. Gates close at 11 p.m. For more information call 362-0048 extension 5.

$95,000 is awarded to MacArthur Woods

By Becky Duba
Staff Reporter

MacArthur Woods, located near Vernon Hills, is a 504-acre oak and maple forest that received a $95,000 grant from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and The Conservation Fund on April 21.

The funding is supporting a major project now underway at the Preserve—one of the state's highest quality natural areas.

The Chicago Wilderness also awarded the Preserve an additional grant of $15,000 in support of the project.

The Preserve is home to six endangered species and over 40 species of birds.

The awarded grant money will be used over the next several years by Forest Preserve ecologists to reverse an epidemic of non-native buckthorn and garlic mustard that is hindering the growth of the area's natural wildflowers and other plants. If the non-native plants are not stopped, a chain reaction of ecological imbalance will ensue.

Water levels will also be restored to their original level in the 70 acres of northern flatwoods by removing old drain tiles.

Some birds that will benefit from the restoration project include the red-headed woodpecker, the crested flycatcher, and the ovenbird.

"The wonderful thing about this project is its size and scope," said Ken Klick, Restoration Ecologist for the Lake County Forest Preserves, in a written statement. "We're addressing several different facets of land management in one comprehensive project. And we're embracing a much larger site than we've been able to in the past. We'll restore an outstanding site and gain some new understandings in the process. By sharing that information with other agencies, this entire region can benefit."

4 million Americans are infected with hepatitis C

By Becky Duba
Staff Reporter

Hepatitis C is a fast becoming a public health crisis. It is a silent epidemic that attacks the liver.

May is dedicated National Hepatitis Awareness Month and to honor this, the Lake County Health Department is building awareness of the problem.

The Health Department's Executive Director, Dale Galassie, said in a written statement, "Hepatitis C is a potentially deadly blood-borne virus that is four times as prevalent as HIV. Nearly four million Americans are infected, but most are unaware. We urge people who may have been exposed to get tested, and if positive, to learn more about the treatment options."

Symptoms of hepatitis C include: Jaundice, fatigue, loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting, low-grade fever, pale or clay colored stools, dark urine, and generalized itching.

However, Shawn Cesario of the Health Department, said, "Even though there are symptoms for hepatitis C, most carriers don't realize they are infected. In the acute, or beginning, stages they may only feel fatigued or have mild flu-like symptoms."

She continued to explain that even when the virus has moved into its chronic stage, "infected persons may still not experience a lot of the symptoms."

There are numerous ways people can be exposed to hepatitis C. They range from having blood transfusions to unprotected sex. Unsanitary tattoos or body piercings may also lead to becoming infected.

Victims usually do not find out they are infected until they've had blood work done for other various reasons and the virus happens to show up.

Because of this, many experience severe liver damage and the virus is the number one cause of liver transplants.

Hepatitis C has no vaccine and can be terminal.

Cesario explained that in the last year, new treatment options have been explored that look very positive.

However true, she warned that this is a very new way of combating the illness and long range tests need to be done. The best treatment still remains prevention.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Police think suicide was motive in fire

Grayslake—A Mundelein woman was found dead after an apparent suicide attempt May 23.

Workers at Campbell Airport put out a vehicle fire and attempted to revive Wendy C. Nelson, 35, of 655 N. California in Mundelein. "She was beyond any type of resuscitation," reported Grayslake Fire Marshall Brett Henne.

Henne explained that three airport employees noticed a 2000 Chevy Carryall Blazer in flames in the main parking lot near the airport office. Lt. Fred Heidecke, of the Lake County Sheriff's Office, said the men found the victim on the ground outside the driver's side door.

The incident occurred at 2:37 p.m. at the airport, 22731 W. Townline Rd. in Grayslake. The Lake County Sheriff's Department responded to the call.

"This is apparently a suicide, as a note and family photos were located under the windshield wipers on the windshield," said Heidecke. "(There was apparently) a domestic situation which may have had some play in this whole incident."

Heidecke said the family had been notified and that the husband and children were accounted for and safe.

Chain closed, may reopen soon

Fox Lake—Heavy rains forced the Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) to close the Fox River between the Stratton Lock and Dam in McHenry and the Algonquin dam to boating, as well as other uses, due to high water levels and strong currents.

The ruling by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR), Office of Water Resources, and the U.S. Coast Guard, went into effect at 6 a.m. May 19 after storms of the day before. The FWA and IDNR placed a no-wake restriction on the Fox River from the Wisconsin border to the Algonquin Dam, including the Chain 'O Lakes. The no-wake restriction on the river north of the Stratton Dam to the Wisconsin border (including the Chain 'O Lakes) remains in effect. The restriction was expanded and closed to all power boats.

Other uses, such as canoeing, kayaking, sail boarding, and row boating, are allowed. Only the United States Coast Guard (USCG) and the IDNR have the authority to close the waterway, and then re-open it once it is closed.

Kenosha man killed after fight

Round Lake Beach—A Round Lake Heights man has been arrested in possible connection to a strangling death.

According to Round Lake Beach Police, a fight took place on May 23 on the 1800 block of Cedar Lake Rd. around 2:30 a.m.

Witnesses said John S. Lagowski, 33, of 6714 Sheridan Rd. in Kenosha Wisconsin, had been driving around the neighborhood in search of an unknown individual. After being taunted by residents, he allegedly instigated the fight, police said.

After investigating the incident, Round Lake Beach Police arrested Ralph E. Daugherty, 36, of 1809 Hiawatha in Round Lake Heights.

Round Lake Beach Police took Daugherty into custody in possible connection to the strangling.

Butler stated that he was charged with Second Degree Murder and was being held on $500 bond.

Nike site takes step forward

Libertyville—Libertyville and Vernon Hills High School District 128 officials have signed a memorandum of understanding approving funding of stage 1A of the Nike site, located southwest of Vernon Hills High School.

The land will be developed and used by District 128, Lincolnshire Elementary District 103, Stevenson High School District 125 and the Village of Vernon Hills (which together form the re-use committee). Athletic fields will be built on the 164-acre parcel of land, which is designated for use by students from each district. The total cost of phase 1A of the project will be $443,212. District 128 will pay $117,052, or 26.41 percent of the proportionate share, which reflects the projected number of acres to be used by each committee member. The Village of Vernon Hills will pay $180,476, District 125 will pay $121,263 and District 103 will be responsible for $24,421 of the cost.

The land is a former federal government military installation, and according to District 128 Superintendent David Clough, the plan was engineered to allow each district to share facilities located on the site. There is no exact timetable for completion, as the project is still in the early stages.

A citizens financial advisory committee is studying how to pay for the latter stages of the plan and will report its findings to officials in June.

Toddler killed by school bus

Grayslake—Toddler Maggie Anne Gunderson died after she was struck by a school bus backing out of the driveway at her Grayslake home.

Police report the incident occurred May 22 at 7:45 a.m. on the 900 block of Manchester Circle in the College Trail subdivision. Apparently, her older brother had boarded the bus and her mother, Kim Gunderson was unaware of the fact that the 22-month-old toddler was outside the house.

The bus driver, a 36-year-old female, tested negative for drugs and alcohol. No charges have been filed against her.

Trustee reacts to LCTIP proposals

Mundelein—For Mundelein, both of the Lake County Transportation Improvement Project's (LCTIP) proposals to alleviate traffic will affect the village. However, Trustee Ed Sullivan said that the effects of the two remaining proposals are polar opposites.

Monumental Achievement

Pat Clavey, Peter Karlovic and Vince Brioukous help erect a veterans' memorial monument with other veterans at Peterson Park in Gurnee May 23. The memorial will be unveiled Memorial Day.—Photo by Kirsten N. Hough

The first proposal calls for an extension of Rte. 53 from the Cook County border to Rte. 120. The addition would be either a freeway or tollway.

The other proposal calls for improvements to be made to Rtes. 83, 21, 45, 60 and 12, with bypasses of the downtown Mundelein, Libertyville and Grayslake areas.

Sullivan said that the Rte. 53 plan would essentially wreak havoc on the Mundelein area. The freeway would run just west of Mundelein High School, splitting through two residential developments.

"The 53 alignment is a disaster. It splits the town in half," Sullivan said. "I can't understand why experts would even consider a plan like this."

For Sullivan, the comprehensive improvements detailed in the Rte. 83/Rte. 45 proposal make more sense for the county, as well as the village.

LCTIP will make a final decision on which proposal they will recommend to the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) sometime this summer.

Village receives anti-gang award

Mundelein—When Mundelein Police Chief Ray Rose came to the village seven and a half years ago, gangs were a problem in the village.

But through the efforts of the police, the public works department, the village board and the schools, the emergency calls that come into the station are no longer for graffiti and shots fired, but for cars speeding down residential blocks.

"I would say that there was a gang problem in Mundelein, but we have a handle on it now," the chief said. "There are still some of these idiots here, but their actions are becoming minimized."

Because of the combined effort to get rid of gangs, the village received an achievement award from the Lake County Regional Action Planning Project (RAPP).

RAPP cited the village's proactive stance by enacting ordinances such as graffiti removal, possession of markers or spray paint by minors and parental responsibility.

Woman sees through phone scam

Gurnee—Gurnee resident was not fooled by a telephone con-artist when she received a suspicious phone call.

The 79-year-old woman caught the telephone scam when the caller told her she had won a $250,000 sweepstakes. All she had to do to claim the prize, the caller said, was send in $3,500 from the bank to cover the taxes. The money would be sent from Canada to avoid duty.

The woman told the caller she had no way to get to the bank. At that point, the caller hung up the phone and the woman called the police.

While the police were en route to her residence, the man called again, offering to have a cab take her to the bank to get the money. The woman refused.

When police arrived, they dialed *69 on the woman's phone and traced the call to Canada.

Developer withdraws annex application

Lake Villa—After a lengthy presentation and discussion at a meeting of the Lake Villa Plan Commission, attorney Dan Venturi, representing J. Michael Rickher and Maxi-Storage, withdrew an application for an annexation agreement with re-zoning.

Venturi said the proposal would be re-submitted after changes had been made to include a C.U.P. (conditional use permit) to assure specific use of the site, with a time limit imposed for implementation.

The agreement involves re-zoning a parcel of land at Villa Rica Rd. and Grass Lake Rd. for use as a site for 300 "condominium" maxi-storage units designed to hold boats and large vehicles such as RVs. The land is currently zoned AG (agricultural) and includes a large portion of protected wetland, as well as undeveloped flatland.

District 34 appoints new principal

Antioch—Antioch Elementary School District 34 appointed Mary Grom as the Antioch Lower Grade School's new principal.

The school has students from kindergarten through fifth grade.

Grom is working on her doctorate at Loyola University and was an assistant principal in Lake Villa. She has also been a teacher and reading specialist in Glencoe.

An offer was also extended to Eric Skoog to take on the position of principal of Antioch Upper Grade School, which has students from sixth through eighth grade.

Skoog is currently the assistant principal of the Upper Grade and was asked to fill the position after the current principal left.

Developers propose new traffic plan

Lindenhurst—At the regular meeting of the Lindenhurst board of trustees, a public hearing was held to determine if approval should be given for annexation of property located at Savage Rd. and Grass Lake Rd. The petition was made by attorney Martin Carey, representing Zale's proposed "Nature's Ridge" subdivision.

The original site plan from Zale shows Auburn Rd. as one of two entrances into the subdivision, with the second one on Savage Rd. The plan calls for Savage Rd. to be partially re-directed eastward, allowing it to intersect Grass Lake Rd. at a 90 degree angle, rather than the relatively unsafe 45 degree angle it now takes to the west of the proposed new intersection.

Zale's designers came up with a revised plan, referred to as the "cul-de-sac plan," which cycles traffic internally through the subdivision, adding an additional cul-de-sac to the plan.

While village engineer Wes Welsh has reservations about the cul-de-sacs because of the increased difficulty they present to snow removal, Tim Nelson, of Krakauer Assoc., Zale's planners, stated that home purchasers generally are willing to pay a premium for cul-de-sac home sites.

Roadwork proposed for Wadsworth

Wadsworth—Trustee Glen Ryback is looking into potential road repair projects in Wadsworth.

At a recent road and bridge committee meeting, members reviewed a potential list of roads in need of resurfacing.

According to Ryback, sections of Shagbark Ln. were included in discussions. In addition, the committee was looking into resurfacing on portions of Burr Oak Ln. and streets within the Min-Oaks subdivision.

Funding for potential road resurfacing will come from motor fuel taxes as well as the village general fund.

However, the trustee stated that road sections are longer this year. Therefore, the village, which has a $300 thousand road budget, will not be able to target as many troubled spots, Ryback said.

The trustee will seek approval on the potential projects from fellow Wadsworth Village Board members on

Density bonuses a slippery strategy

Doggedly, county officials continue to pursue the tantalizing goal of providing a framework for affordable housing, the type of homes working class families can afford.

Another step in this direction was taken Wednesday when a task force made up of builders, real estate brokers, educators, bankers, and county and municipal officials reported their findings to a joint meeting of the Lake County Planning and Zoning Committee and the Community and Economic Development Committee.

A centerpiece of the affordable housing strategy is "density bonuses," an incentive for developers that allows the building of more homes than a given zoning classification permits if the builder promises to put up some houses in more modest price brackets. The bonus plan is accepted practice in mushrooming suburbs on the east coast and in urban areas of California but is untested in the collar counties of Chicago where the incentive would have practical value.

McHenry County is also exploring density subsidies and in one respect is a step ahead of Lake County. McHenry County considers an affordable home to be about $150,000. Lake County officialdom has yet to agree on a price tag for affordable housing.

A major stumbling block of the typical density bonus plan is a requirement that affordable homes be dispersed throughout a development of more expensive homes. The dispersal requirement could give rise to a clash of social values. The subject really gets sticky when enforcement rests on establishment of a system of rent and price controls.

To their credit, Philip Rovang, director of the Lake County Planning and Development Dept., and County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake) have been the leading voices for affordable housing. However, until they take the affordable housing show on the road, prospects for meaningful action are slim. So far most of the affordable housing debate has taken place in the context of county government.

Municipal officials basically have been on the outside looking in. What will it take to get the village and cities on board?

Primary could use some overhauling

Normally an exciting time in our system of participatory, representative government, the primary election in Illinois this spring was a total dud, amounting to an expensive exercise for all practical purposes.

Outside of an interesting scramble for a Republican nomination for Congress from the 10th Dist., the local primary was as exciting as watching grass grow. This is not as it should be. A primary like the one conducted in March is not an instrument for invigorating the two-party system. Who can get enthused about the political process with the lackluster primary conducted by Democrats and Republicans alike this spring in Lake County? The non-event is cause for alarm.

What to do?

On the national level, there is consideration being given to a small-states-first plan. The subject attained recognition this year after winners in both parties were decided by early March. In Lake County, voters favoring Sen. McCain or Sen. Bradley had no opportunity to register their support.

The presidential primary has boiled down to a front-loaded, media driven process that disenfranchises many states and many voters. Democrats like the current system. Republicans will take up at their national convention this year a multi-tiered system where smaller states would be given a voice in the nomination process by voting before the larger states. As a large state, the Illinois primary date might not be much different than now, but the dynamics likely would be a far cry from what didn't happen this year.

The GOP national plans calls for the smallest states voting no earlier than the first Tuesday in February. There would be three more clusters balloting in subsequent months, ending in May. The theory is to have healthy input from a large number of states before the electoral vote giants like New York, California and Texas with 47 per cent of the delegates go to the polls.

At the local level, Democrats have to get better organized at the grassroots before they can stage a meaningful primary. A simple solution, perhaps, but difficult to accomplish. Lake County Republican leadership needs to "open up" the primary process. They need to invite more candidacies. Would-be candidates, in our estimation, are intimidated by the perceived power structure.

Every primary election should be invigorating for the political parties. Open the windows; let in fresh air. If the primary window remains shut, the parties stagnate and our political system suffers.

VIEWPOINT

Racial profiling misleading term

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Ask any police chief in Lake County about the subject of racial profiling and you're likely to get a reaction of a guy who has just scheduled root canal surgery. It's not a fun subject to talk about—or even think about.

But in our suit-happy, "gotcha" media, racially-charged society, an allegation of profiling always is lurking as one of the risks of a career in law enforcement. Like laying your life on the line every shift.

Highland Park's involvement in charges that command officials encouraged racial profiling brought an explosive issue close to home. Highland Park Police Chief Daniel J. Dahlberg, 46, the major target in a lengthy investigation, is on a first name basis with just about every police chief in the county. Dahlberg's reputation is that of a highly-regarded professional who would not condone "back water town" tactics like abusing citizens because of their skin color or surname.

Following extensive coverage of police agency racial profiling in the daily press and television, inquiries of this column proved negative. Ethnic jokes can be found among law enforcement officers like those heard in the typical fitness center locker room or local tavern. That's about it.

As part of the Highland Park inquiry, council member and mayor pro tem Michael C. Brenner declared that Chief Dahlberg goes out of his way to make sure Hispanics are not being targeted. What about African Americans? Brenner didn't say. This column found local police officials steer clear of targeting in any shape or form. Period.

Round Lake Beach Police Chief Ed Sindles said he finds the term of racial profiling "misleading." As a practical matter, 90 percent of the time a traffic officer stopping a car "has no idea who the occupant is," Sindles commented. Department guidelines call for strict adherence to the rule of probable cause. "Above all," Sindles noted, "our officers must be able to explain why they stopped a motorist."

Another chief, who requested anonymity, put it this way: "We talk about our minority contacts all the time. We're very aware of sensitive racial issues. There are absolutely no profiles or quotas in our department."

Police chiefs who discussed charges of racial profiling generally agreed that the issue is over-blown, over-stated and over-covered by the media. "In truth," one chief observed, "sort of the opposite is the case. Patrol officers are very aware that they are opening themselves up to criticism when they stop a motorist of color or with an Hispanic surname. It's like the same as making a DUI arrest. You know you're in for grief. But it's part of your job."

Does this mean minority citizens frequently get a pass? we asked. "What do you think?" the same chief replied.

Mundelein Police Chief Ray Rose, who has a reputation for being forthright dealing with diversity questions and has won state awards for community policing, spoke with us at length on profiling questions.

Rose pointed out that prominent profiling issues in the news have come from internal sources rather than the community. "That's significant," the long-time lawman pointed out. As is typical of suburban police departments, Mundelein puts a heavy emphasis on diversity training and is proactive in sensitivity awareness.

The challenge for law enforcement, Rose emphasized, is to take care that certain segments of the community do not become immune. Turning a back is not solving problems, in Chief Rose's opinion.

Ship inquiry

An idea that has been talked about for a long time—bringing a fighting Navy vessel to Lake County for permanent mooring at a Lake Michigan port—will undergo a serious inquiry by the Lake County Council of the U.S. Navy League. Acting President Tom Doddington emphasized that the Navy League is not committed to the project in action taken by the board of directors, but there will be a finding of fact on such things as cost, responsibility, maintenance, and making the ship available to the public. As far as is known, there is no other retired Navy ship now moored on the Great Lakes.

Peaker Power plants—need a long peek

The recent "governor's roundtable" in Lake County showed what may be the most pressing and controversial issue here—the many requests to construct peaker power plants around the county. Governor George Ryan, in a way, may have been pleased that the "hot" peaker plant issue took some heat off of the driver's license scandal.

Since the electricity deregulation law of 1997, peaker power plants are being proposed around the state, but particularly in the "growth areas" of northern Illinois. The plants generate electricity using natural gas-fired turbines, which proponents argue makes them more environmentally sound, but there are other legitimate environmental concerns.

"Peaker plants" may be a misnomer. They are designed to generate electricity during times of highest demands, the "peak periods," usually during summer months. But, there is nothing in the law that limits the plants to generate electricity only when there are peak demands.

Both Gov. Ryan and his director of the Environmental Protection Agency, Tom Skinner, said that they cannot issue a moratorium on the construction of peaker plants. Gov. Ryan has drawn national attention to his bold move in issuing a moratorium on the death penalty in Illinois. It seems to me that there ought to be a way to issue a moratorium on building these peaker power plants until the many concerns are addressed.

Does the deregulation of the electricity industry mean that the electric utilities can do whatever they want wherever they want? I hope not. The matter of air quality, noise pollution, water uses, and other quality of life issues must be addressed, and time is of the essence.

We must determine if there are any business relationships between major power companies and the peaker power industry. If so, would that open the door to collusion? What is the likelihood that peaker power plants, once they are up and running, could be "gobbled up" thereafter as subsidiaries of major power companies, like ComEd? If that could happen, what would be the likelihood that the peaker plants would be used much more often than only during peak demand times?

We in Lake County should have learned our lesson when the nuclear power plant was constructed over 25 years ago in Zion. Remember, they said that there would be a solution to what to do with the nuclear waste. They would say anything to "put us off just to get the plant up and running."

In a way, we have the same situation now. Have you seen anything like this "mad dash to the finish line" to get as many peaker power plants up and running as soon as possible. Once they are up, they may provide power, but we as citizens, are powerless. Just the urgency to construct the plants without regulation or without an investigation of the im-

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Miller aims to expand cooperative spirit

Ward Miller, director of the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) is a new appointee to the Regional Planning Commission.

He says he wants to expand the spirit of cooperation with municipalities that prevails in handling storm drainage and flooding problems.

Miller estimated that 98 percent of the county's 53 municipalities support SMC leadership. Nine years ago when SMC was organized there was open hostility among the cities and villages. "We've come a long way," Miller noted.

Standing in line to run for Gurnee mayor.

Garrett: Is a Lake Forest benefactor from statehouse?

Shorts. Weakly is regarded as holding a "power-behind-the-throne" job.

Pork producers

When it comes to handouts from the state, wealthy Lake Forest gets in line like everyone else. For the next fiscal year beginning July 1, 2000, State Sen. Terry Link (D-Veron Hills) and State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest) announced they will deliver $1,333,500 to the City of Lake Forest for various projects. Gorton Community Center is the biggest recipient with two grants totaling $750,000.

Chief alum

New Zion Police Chief Doug Malcolm is believed to be the first graduate of the College of Lake County law enforcement curriculum to become head law enforcement officer of a county community. Malcolm obtained an associate degree from CLC in 1974. He became a full-time Zion officer in 1976 after signing on as a cadet four years earlier.

Super strip

Competition between the villages of Lakemoor and Volo for development rights at the key intersection of Rtes. 12 and 120 is getting intense. In his own community, Lakemoor Mayor Ron Cichoski ripped a developer's plan for a shopping center as a "strip mall on steroids." Looking for upscale stores, Cichoski is incensed that a Wal-Mart is proposed. Cichoski said every town has a Wal-Mart. Volo is pushing for development of its portion of the intersection.

Links honored

Suzi Link, head of Lake County Millennium summer activities, received a degree in ceremonies at Barat College. At the same time, husband State Sen. Terry Link (D-Veron Hills), was accorded honors for his contributions to government and public affairs.

Opposing Welton

The anti-Welton faction on the Gurnee village board will decide in the next 60 to 90 days who will challenge Mayor Dick Welton in next year's village election. Trustee Tom Chamberlain has been the most outspoken critic of Welton, but observers see any of the other Welton critics as possible mayoral candidates as well. That would include Trustees Ray Damijonaitis, Donald Rudny and Kristina Kovarik.

Far from weak-ly

Without mentioning him by name, Waukegan mayoral candidate Bill Shorts took a shot at Don Weakly in his campaign announcement when he talked about combining the position of director of governmental services with the mayor's job. Eliminating the high paid job held by Weakly would save $100,000 in salary and expenses, according to

Bobby Knight movie? Nick Nolte did it

Wow, here's a scoop! This just in—Bobby Knight is resigning as Indiana University basketball coach and will go into the furniture business. If you buy a sofa, he'll throw in a chair free.

Okay, okay, so that was a joke 15 years ago when Knight did hurl a chair across a basketball court after being kicked out of a game for trashing the referees.

But let me digress and return to the point later.

Six years ago when a new movie, "Jefferson in Paris," was being reviewed, one critic joked:

"Etched in small print at the bottom of the Thomas Jefferson monument in Washington, D.C., is the message: 'When you get around to making the movie of my life, don't give the part to Nick Nolte.'"

Returning to the point: Well, maybe actor Nolte wasn't quite Jeffersonian enough for that role, but also about six years ago he did a great Bobby Knight in one of the best sports movies ever: "Blue Chips."

With all the current coverage of Knight, the ticking time bomb who supposedly is just one tantrum away from really looking for another job, there no doubt are non-basketball fans who don't realize how big a jerk he has been for the last 25 years. A once-great coach but ever the bull in the china shop.

The Indiana University administration, recently reviewing his long career as a creep, didn't have the courage to fire him and Knight didn't have the grace to resign. But he's been told if he doesn't become an instant Boy Scout he's history.

Writers of sports have been busy calling him all sorts of names, including lout, thug and bully, but a more pleasant and sugarcoated way for the instant fan to get to know Bobby Knight is to rent the film "Blue Chips"—or maybe catch it on one of the movie channels where it has been shown often recently.

Nolte reportedly followed Knight around for a few days to study the character. The movie gets right to the point. In the opening scene the coach delivers an obscenity-laced locker-room tirade to his players. He throws things and kicks over chairs.

In the second scene he still is cussing a purple streak, but now at the officials. He takes the basketball away from one of them and punts it high into the fieldhouse seats. He gets tossed out of the game.

In the next scene, a press conference, the coach pitches a fit at reporters (one of them played by Ed O'Neill from the sitcom "Married With Children").

There also is an O'Neal in the cast: professional player Shaquille. Making really neat cameo appearances are basketball greats Bob Cousy and Larry Bird. Bobby Knight is in the movie, too, as a well-behaved opposing coach.

In the 1994 movie, a television commentator says of the Nolte character: "His sideline antics are becoming boring and embarrassing to the alumni, to the chancellor and to the athletic director."

Talk about art imitating life and vice-versa. Except that in the movie we end up liking the coach.

Recorder's office offers a lot to seniors

If you belong to a Senior group, here's a program you all should be taking advantage of.

Recently, Mary Ellen Vanderventer, the Lake County recorder of Deeds spoke to the group about all the information and services available to the seniors in the Recorder's office. As a taxpayer, I was amazed to learn about all the duties of her office and all the information that is at our fingertips, often at no cost to seniors.

At our evening meeting, Mary Ellen Vanderventer brought interesting hand-outs and took the time to answer all of our questions about our home, liens and family research.

While everyone should hear Mary Ellen Vanderventer speak, this particular program shows seniors how to be sure that all of our paperwork is in order regarding our property and our homes before any tragedy occurs.

Take advantage of this program. You will learn a lot.

Good job, Al

My neighbors and I wanted to express our personal thanks to the Lake County Board, and our representative Al Westerman, for doing the right thing by turning down the recent appeal by Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis is the first to admit that Town and Country damaged him by elevating the Banbury Drive extension onto his property and this is what needs to be corrected. We, too, feel for Mr. Lewis, but his grievance is with Town and Country and the Bridlewood Development, not the County or my neighbors and I in Mill Creek Crossing.

The legal agreement, drafted by

Mr. Thut between Town and Country and Mr. Lewis in 1995, was quite clear—that—quoting an excerpt from his agreement—"extended Banbury Drive was to match existing elevation on the Lewis property."

In parallel with this agreement, the planning committee voted to grant Mr. Lewis a variation from the ordinance to lengthen the road, with the explicit statement that this road would not impact adjoining neighbors. No permission was ever granted that allowed Mr. Lewis to construct this road at the super-elevated 12 feet that now faces our properties. Also, the preliminary plat that the planning committee approved, depicted that the proposed homes on the Banbury Drive extension be construction "at grade" in conjunction with the preceding agreement. Approving the final plat, given the misrepresented preliminary plat and road impacts, would have been wrong. Again, we thank the board for doing the right thing, as approving this plan would have gone against the principles that we, as citizens, expect our elected county officials to uphold.

As a further matter of record, we took the initiative to arrange a meeting with Mr. Lewis back in the fall, well before his deadlines, to try to work things out. In fact, Mr. Lewis had sketched a variation of his plan, that after a few additional revisions in our joint meeting, we had all reached consensus with. Unfortunately, Mr. Lewis chose not to act on this variation, but rather reverted back to his original plan.

We are sorry that Mr. Lewis has experienced these difficulties, but the resolution should not be attempts to strong arm the Lake County Board to approve a plan before first correcting the central issue, the elevated road. Why Mr. Lewis feels that he has the right to build a road—in clear violation of a plan—and then expect to construct on it is beyond reason. If Mr. Lewis feels that he was wronged by Town and Country, then he should have the opportunity to settle the issue in court where all sides of the issue can be clearly heard and represented. For this reason alone, we urge the county board not to reconsider any further please by Mr. Lewis for appeal, as doing so would only be shifting the responsibility.

pact that the plants may have on the environment makes me believe that things are suspect.

By the way, the many who attended the "roundtable" and spoke out against the mad rush to construct peaker plants are to be commended. The "conservation alliance" has become a vocal force in support of environment issues in Lake County, and they have such a groundswell of public support, that they have become a strong political force, too.

That Gov. Ryan has announced an advisory committee to look into the peaker plant issue means that they recognize the overall concerns that people have on this matter. I agree with Susan Zingle, of the Conservation Alliance, who said that allowing the plants to go on with the process while a committee drags on can be "too late," and much of the damage will have been done.

To the peaker plant industry, I would say, "slow down, what is there to hide?" This is a new industry, let's lay it all out for everyone to find out all of the ramifications of it. Let's face it, it's about money. Is there that much in it that so much can be earned just operating at peak demand times, or is this the "foot in the door?" There is so much to ask, and not time to ask, unless responsible public officials take this issue "by the horns," and allow people who are genuinely concerned about quality of life to find out what impact peaker plants will have in their neighborhoods.

So, peaker plants—we aren't asking for too much—because you are so new, and because it just may be that you may result in a negative impact for the environment, and because there is every right for communities to understand every impact that peaker plants may have on the quality of life, and for many more reasons—before you go on this dizzy fast track, slow down, and—LET US TAKE A LONG PEEK AT PEAKER POWER PLANTS.

Food for thought—if you're thinking about food

Gail Borden was the son of an American frontiersman. He was born in New York in 1801 and began his working career as a school teacher in Mississippi.

Borden worked his way across the south and eventually landed in Texas. He worked in politics, and is credited with assisting in the writing of the Texas State constitution.

While it was not what his name is best known for, Borden was also a newspaper reporter. He was the first to use the phrase "Remember the Alamo." His words would later become the battle cry of freedom for the Texans' heroic struggle to gain independence.

However, Gail Borden didn't make history with his early work. What Borden is best known for is milk. Specifically, condensed sweet milk that included additional sugar to prevent spoilage. His story is one of both failure and success. Like many entrepreneurs, fame and fortune did not run up and jump into Borden's lap. He hungered to get ahead in the food industry, but financial success eluded him in the beginning.

Borden's first food product—a dehydrated meat biscuit—won an international award for excellence in Europe. It was healthy and nutritious, but failed to sell well with the general public because of its taste.

Borden was nearly broke and traveling by boat in steerage class with poor European immigrants when inspiration struck. He watched many of the babies die on the trip because of infected milk. Haunted by what he had seen, Borden decided to learn how to prevent future disaster.

Borden spent months with the Shakers—a religious sect—to learn how they used vacuum cooking to preserve food. It was there he learned to remove water from milk to condense and preserve it. When he was 55, he received his first patent for sweetened, condensed milk.

The Civil War brought Borden's product to the attention of a nation. During and after the war, condensed milk and canned foods helped millions avoid starvation. Borden's milk became a staple, an infant formula, and substitute for sugar in recipes.

The Borden Company also milked other innovations on its way to becoming an American food institution. They were the first company to sell fresh milk in bottles. They were first to homogenize milk in 1927 and also the first to add vitamin D. The company's research led to the first U.S. standards on pasteurization.

Don't give up

Gail Borden, like many of today's entrepreneurs, was a failure before he became successful. It was only through his continuing efforts that he ultimately achieved success.

Many food products were discovered by accident. Legend tells us that somewhere in the desert an Arabian trader discovered cheese when he attached a container of milk to his camel's hump during a long journey. Between the burning desert sun and the camel's joggling, the milk curdled. Cheese was born.

In 1890, a caring doctor in St. Louis wanted to provide an easily digestible source of protein for his aging patients. He selected peanuts

More Lake County employers hiring

New jobs will open up at a healthy rate in the Lake County area this summer, based on results of Manpower's Third Quarter Employment Outlook Survey.

The report indicates 28 percent of firms interviewed expect their payrolls to increase during the July-September period, 3 percent say fewer workers will be needed and 48 percent intend to stay at current levels. The remaining 21 percent are uncertain.

"In the survey of one year ago," said Charles R. Bartels of Manpower, the outlook was similar as 24 percent planned workforce additions, while none predicted cutbacks. The third quarter can be one of the most active hiring periods of the year, and with the robust economy, quite challenging in recruiting and retaining workers."

This summer, job opportunities are indicated in durable and non-durable goods manufacturing, wholesale/retail trade and services. Staff reductions are foreseen in education.

On a national basis, companies in record numbers will be competing for new employees in most geographic regions, as 35 percent plan staff additions, 5 percent expect reductions, 55 anticipate no change and 5 percent are undecided.

Manpower Inc. conducts the Employment Outlook Survey on a quarterly basis. It is a measurement of employers' intentions to increase or decrease the permanent workforce, and during its 24-year history has been a significant indicator of employment trends. The survey is based on telephone interviews with nearly 16,000 public and private employers in 488 U.S. cities. Manpower Inc., has several offices in Lake County.

Famous Freddie's restaurant opens at waterfront location

Fred Hoffman brings 30 years of experience in the restaurant business to his newest venture in Fox Lake.

Famous Freddie's Roadhouse opened with a private party May 25 at 510 S. Park St. The restaurant will emphasize Fox Lake's resort past and will be accessible by both boat and auto.

"I started in the restaurant business when I was 12 years old. I worked for my father after school in the kitchen. I would do dishes, food preparation. I learned the business from the bottom up. At age 25, I opened my first Snuggeries," Hoffman, a Fox Lake resident, said.

Freddie's menu includes the 99 cent, half-pound Famous Freddie Burger, 69 cent homemade bratwurst made according to the high quality old schegel recipe, cold shrimp for just 25 cents apiece, grilled steak, tossed salad, shrimp, pork and catfish kabobs, chicken wings on a stick, steak salad and tossed salad with a basketful of fries cooked to order for just 99 cents.

Hoffman said the restaurant is "in the home stretch" of the planning. The staff will be 50 to 60 members.

"It faces to the south, so there will be sunshine and there is a natural wetlands near Meyers Bay. It is in a no-wake area, which will make it easy for people to dock. We will have a shuttle boat to the dock," Hoffman said.

Hoffman said the 365-day-a-year restaurant will have strong ties to the area's past.

"The lake is our biggest draw. Fox Lake is a suburb now, but I remember coming up with my family and friends to the Chain 'O Lakes," Hoffman said.

Famous Freddie's waterfront location includes an outdoor beach bar, plenty of garden seating, and 100 boat slips for easy access for boaters. The restaurant is next to Kings Harbor Marina. By car, take Rte. 12 to Kings Dr., turn west.

Hoffman said the motif will include a "museum to the roots" of Peaker plant promoter welcomes moratorium

While Lake County officials continue to deal with the explosive issue of peaker plant approval, McHenry County is moving toward a moratorium on the controversial electrical generating plants.

The 120-day moratorium could be invoked as early as June 20 in action by the McHenry County Board. The delaying procedure is being conducted along zoning lines that would be modified to provide for an officially sanctioned moratorium.

The delay is being welcomed by Reliant Energy which is seeking to establish a peaker operation near Woodstock. Richard Benedict of Reliant said it is worthwhile to formulate new rules and regulations "everyone can agree on."

County officials are expected to get zoning revision June 20. The moratorium would begin the following day.

IMC Global relocating to Lake Forest

IMC Global Inc. plans to consolidate its two suburban Chicago locations into a single new corporate and business unit headquarters site in Lake Forest by mid-July.

About 260 employees from the company's current headquarters at 2100 Sanders Road in Northbrook and its IMC Phosphates, IMC Potash and IMC Feed Ingredients business unit offices at 2345 Waukegan Road in Bannockburn will move into two floors of a newly constructed office building at 100 Saunders Road in Lake Forest.

The new office facility is located at the southeast corner of Interstate 294 and Town Line Road.

"In addition to the many operating synergies and communications benefits of being together, this consolidation reflects our drive to establish a single, unified corporate identity under the IMC brand name and a common, high performance culture focused on our strategic goals to be the low-cost producer, achieve world-class customer service and become truly global," said Douglas A. Pertz, President and Chief Executive Officer of IMC Global.

"This is a clear example of our efforts to strengthen and expand communication lines across the company and ensure that we are working with a team approach and a consistent set of values."

Tourism on tap at June power breakfast

The Lake County Power Breakfast takes on tourism on June 7, at Midlane Golf Resort in Wadsworth.

The monthly business forum will feature Gail Svendsen, President and CEO of the Lake County Convention and Visitors Bureau, Cathy Ritter, Director of the Illinois Bureau of Tourism, CeCe Durbin, Women's Regional Affairs Director for the U.S.G.A. and Chris Mordi, Promotions Director at Bass Pro Outdoor World.

"Tourism is very important to Lake County," said Lenny Khayat, General Manager of Midlane Golf Resort. "We certainly enjoy a great deal of economic benefits from the money brought into the market by our top-notch attractions. At the same time, some folks have become increasingly vocal about the impact these same tourists have on transportation and other quality-of-life issues in Lake County."

Svendsen is a graduate of Illinois State University and has headed the local Convention and Visitors Bureau since the early '80s. Gail is a member of the Northern Illinois Tourism Council, the Chicago Society of Association Executives and has earned several other distinctions in her 16-plus years at the Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Cathy Ritter was recently named as Director of the Illinois Bureau of Tourism. She brings years of success as a newspaper reporter and nearly a decade of creating and executing key initiatives on behalf of the State of Illinois and its residents. Cathy's latest assignment is to deliver the exciting message of Illinois and its residents.

One of the newest tourist attractions in Lake County is this year's USGA Women's Championship, scheduled for July at the Merit Club in Gurnee. CeCe Durbin will discuss the benefits of having such a high-profile event in the market.

Chris Mordi recently joined Bass Pro Shops-Outdoor World at Gurnee Mills Mall as their new Promotions Director. He is active in public relations, community relations and event management for Bass Pro Shops.

For reservations, contact Midlane at 360-0550.

Extensive refurbishment underway at Hawthorn Health Center in Hollister Grove

Lake County's premier independent campus for health care practices is getting a new look, thanks to $1.5 million in renovations. Hawthorn Health Center at Hollister Grove is undergoing extensive remodeling in a project expected to wrap up this summer. According to John Sheridan, chairman of L.J. Sheridan & Co., the improvements are already well underway.

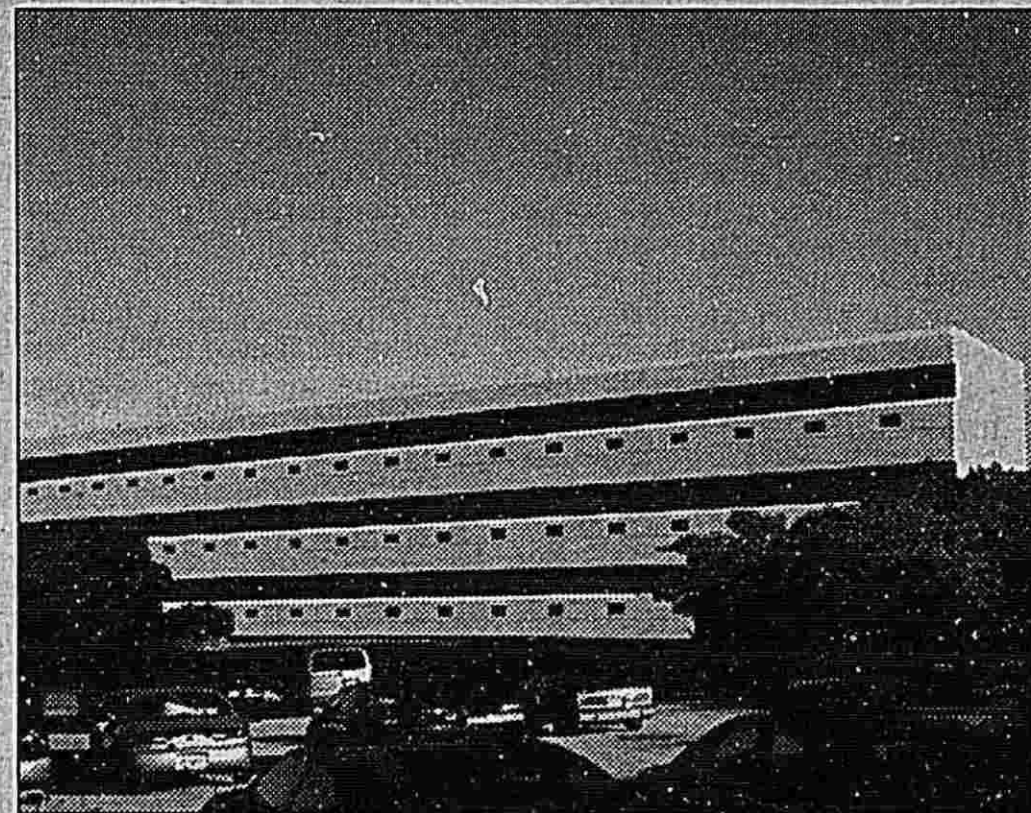

The upgrades include a completely new exterior, with new windows and insulation for the 35,000 square foot facility. Hawthorn Health Center will also have a new entrance with revolving and handicap doors to provide enhanced access, critical for medical practices.

New landscaping is already in place, as are the new island with improved lighting in the parking lot. This phase of the remodeling is scheduled for completion in late August, 2000.

"There has never been a remodeling project quite like this one," said Sheridan. "The trick is working around our tenancy without disrupting their day-to-day operations." The new "skin" on the building is designed to complement the look of Grand Oaks Health Center, the new medical building on the Hollister Grove campus that opened in 1999. L.J. Sheridan & Co.

is the developer for Hollister Grove and property manager at both Grand Oaks and Hawthorn Health Centers.

The medical buildings are located on 58-acres nestled amidst a nature preserve on the shore of the Des Plaines River. This unique setting creates a sense of calm and space for medical practices. Libertyville-based Hollister Incorporated, the multi-national firm specializing in manufacturing products for the medical community, owns the Hollister Grove campus. "Hollister is an extremely progressive property owner," continued Sheridan. "This remodeling project reflects its long-term commitment to the beautiful Hollister Grove campus."

Hawthorn Health Center will undergo a $1.5 million renovation this summer.

Free seminar for parents

Summer is coming. A time for children to enjoy running and climbing, riding bikes and roller blading. The increased activity that summer months bring often means play time injuries are bound to increase.

With the help of a free seminar sponsored by Victory Memorial Hospital and Provena Saint Therese Medical Center, parents can prepare themselves to care for the minor scrapes and injuries that lie ahead this summer. "Summer Injuries! Do you know basic first aid?" is a first aid primer for parents of children from infancy through adolescence.

Taught by a certified first aid instructor, this free seminar will be held from 6:30-7:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 7, at Provena Saint Therese Medical Center, 2615 Washington Street. For more information or to register for this program, call 360-2181.

Poor circulation targets legs and feet

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a male, 75, and have what my doctor tells me is poor circulation because my feet are numb all the time. I'm looking for any information on circulation problems you might offer. — J.W.

ANSWER: The most common complaint of those with poor circulation is leg pain while walking. The affected person can predict almost to the inch when legs are going to hurt. Resting makes the pain go away.

Numbness is a less common symptom, but it happens. Numbness is a more common symptom of nerve disease. This is my way of telling you that a second opinion would be welcomed.

With circulation blockage, pulses in the legs and feet disappear. Pressing on a toenail causes blanching, and the toenail takes a long time to pink up after pressure is released.

An excellent test for circulation is measuring blood pressure at the ankle and comparing it to arm blood pressure. They should be nearly equal if leg arteries are free of obstructions.

For the moment, let's assume obstructed circulation is your problem. Exercise is important. Walk until the legs hurt or the feet become numb. Then rest, and resume walking until symptoms recur.

Medicines can facilitate blood flow through partially clogged arteries. Two newer drugs are cilostazol (Pletal) and clopidogrel (Plavix). Pentoxifylline (Trental) has been around longer.

Angioplasty is the procedure where a doctor snakes a balloon-tipped plastic tube to the site of obstruction. Then the doctor inflates the balloon to squash obstructing buildup. Surgically replacing the clogged artery with a graft is another way to restore circulation.

Readers who would like more information on this common condition can order the Health Letter Report on the topic by writing: Dr. Donohue — HL 36-8W Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents), No. 10 envelope and $3. Please allow 6-12 weeks for delivery.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I used to eat raw clove of garlic every day for blood pressure control. My breath wasn't the greatest, so I switched to garlic pills. Instructions say to take 400 mg a day. I take three pills. Am I taking too much? — C.P.

ANSWER: If you are taking three 400-mg pills, you are far exceeding the manufacturer's recommendation. I have never heard of garlic poisoning, but I'd back down to the amount suggested on the label. One clove of garlic approximately equals 600 mg.

Garlic devotees say it lowers cholesterol and reduces blood pressure. The original luster for cholesterol control has become a bit tarnished. You are not going to do any harm, however, in using it.

Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. Readers may write him at P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

What the foul filth... the truth behind kids swearing

Hi Dr. Singer,

I call you tonight about what I consider to be a very stupid segment on the news about kids and swearing. I am watching it as I call you and am losing my faith in this country's parents. What is going on with people in this country that the news feels it is worth a segment of this size to deal with swearing in kids. There is a very easy answer to this and it isn't in giving it a lot of attention. Wanted to get your take since we agree with every piece we have seen you write. Thanks for your wisdom! E.R.

Hi E.R.,

To be honest with you, I haven't watched all of it, but did catch the ads for it and heard some of the thoughts of the people on it including the news people.

The main reason I did not watch it is what I heard in the ads and out of the mouths of the people in the ads. I figured it was going to be another one of those "give any excuse for bad behavior-feelings before responsibility or anything else" specials. I also believe there is a simple answer to swearing in kids or any other form of bad behavior in kids and I am also very upset by what I see occurring in our society from coast to coast. From your tone, I assume you agree with me.

This is not rocket science folks and when a news special focuses on paying attention to the "anger" in these kids, or "understanding the anger in these kids," that is supposedly causing the swearing behavior, I scratch my head and wonder what these people are thinking. In the 1950's we didn't have problems with kids like we do today. Ask yourself why! What was different then? Did kids not get angry back then? Did they not respond to things back then? The answer is a clear, "NO!"

The difference then was that people were expected to act with certain decorum and within certain limits. If anyone did not act that way, including children, there were serious consequences both from parents and society in the form of teachers, etc. It wasn't that kids didn't get angry then. They just had to find a way to control themselves and their behavior so that they didn't have to face consequences. Consequences were a way of life then and that has almost completely disappeared from our society. It makes me sick, because I believe that when we let a child believe that any behavior is OK in the name of being angry or feeling bad, we are undoing that child's life. We are contributing to that child's inability to ever be able to control him or herself ever. I think that is the worst abuse I can imagine possible.

These "feelings first" buffs who think that kids need to talk things out before any consequences are really fooling themselves if they think they are doing anything good for kids. When you take a child who has just been obnoxious and sit down and shower attention on that child in the form of "talking it out," you are letting that child know that the behavior was appropriate and accepted. I always get amazed by these mental health professionals who are confused as to why a child's bad behavior goes on and on and on after lots of talking. It's simple folks. Actions speak louder than words! How many times have we heard that said by our parents and grandparents. When your action is to give lots of attention for bad behavior, your words don't mean squat anymore.

PARENT'S PLACE

As for kids being angry...I firmly believe that this has absolutely nothing to do with acting out behavior. I believe they do it because they can. Period. Kids are limitless by nature and they depend on adults to limit their behavior. When the adults fall asleep at the wheel and don't do that, kids do anything and everything. It's normal that they do that. What isn't normal is that we seem to have so many adults asleep at the wheel.

There is no excuse for not using strict discipline when a child breaks rules in a heinous way. There is also no excuse for adults not putting discipline first and feelings second. You notice, I am not taking the feelings out completely, but if you require a child to first take responsibility and pay for obnoxious behavior, you will have far more attention paid to the talk afterwards about feelings. If you do it responsibility first, feelings second, you will have a kid who will think twice next time he is going to do the bad thing. If you do it the opposite and let the feelings be first, you have a kid who has absolutely nothing to lose and therefore will continue to do this.

The playground got blamed for this swearing thing. Lots of parents talk about how they don't swear in their houses, yet their kids end up swearing to beat the band. Folks, if all of us adults don't get together both at school and home, to stop this insane way of thinking, this will only get worse.

For those of you who want to blame shows on t.v., be careful. There have always been ways for kids to get to material that is not appropriate for them. That doesn't mean that kids have always freely and openly used that material. In a world where limits and punishment is breaking down all over the place, including our prisons, is it any wonder that our kids are running amuck? Let's think about this and stop watching these kids wreck their futures by preventing them from learning self-control.

Healthy summer tips

While enjoying our summer vacations, we should remember that accidents often happen while we enjoy our leisure time. Many elements that are adjustable in our surroundings will affect whether summer vacation is fun filled or horrendous. Mishaps include, pedestrian and cycling injuries, falls, drowning, burns, and firearms.

Pedestrian and cycling injuries account for more than 1,000 children deaths each year. In this category the highest rate of injury occurs in kids from 5 to 15 years. Parents can ensure that their children use properly fitting bicycle helmets and receive education in safe riding habits. Helmets should also be used for rollerblading, skateboarding, and scooters.

Educational programs promoting helmet use have proven to lower injury rates.

Falls, especially in children less than 5 years old, can prove to be devastating, causing injury or even death. These include falls from windows, play equipment, shopping carts and areas around the home. Experts maintain that wheeled walkers should not be used because the fall hazard they impose.

Sadly, drowning accidents occur most often in children less than 5 years and over 15 years. Children should never be left unattended in or near deep water. Infant accidents also occur in the bathtub. Older adolescent and young adult drowning is often associated with the use of alcohol. Statistically, we know that water safety awareness, using personal flotation devices, enclosing pools in fences, and swimming lessons all offer some protection from such accidents.

House fires and hot liquid tragedies are also most common in kids less than 5 years old. Reduction or elimination of burn injuries is aided by the proper use of smoke detectors, keeping water heaters set

Five simple ways to de-stress your daily routine

Stressed out? You're not alone. According to the American Institute of Stress, Americans are more stressed than ever before. Forty three percent of adults suffer adverse health effects as a result, and 75 to 90 percent of adult visits to primary care physicians are precipitated by stress-related problems. Stress also causes approximately one million employees to be absent on any given workday, and ultimately is responsible for nearly 50 percent of employee burnout and 40 percent of worker turnover.

"Stress is an inescapable part of modern life," explains Todd Imholte, vice president of Hopkins, MN-based Environmental Graphics, the United States' largest producer of wall murals. "Whether we like it or not, we're constantly juggling a myriad of professional and personal responsibilities, often with too little time to do any of them justice. Add in technology, which now allows us to be 'on call' during our leisure time via cell phones, pagers and e-mail, and it's no wonder our stress levels are higher than ever before."

That's the bad news. The good news is that there are a variety of stress management techniques that can be easily incorporated into the busiest daily routine. Imholte offers a few suggestions:

Top five stress-busters

1. Go for a walk - on the beach, in the mountains or around your neighborhood. Just 20 minutes a day can work wonders, both physically and mentally.

2. Bring the outdoors indoors. Decorate your home with nature-inspired decor to help you relax and soothe the soul.

3. Take up an enjoyable hobby. Whether it's painting, playing an instrument, knitting or fly-fishing, choose something that will force you to calm down and enjoy the moment.

4. Try Tai Chi, meditation or prayer. By focusing on within, you'll acquire a proper perspective and better control over the anxiety-riddled external world.

Imholte emphasizes the importance of creating a peaceful, nurturing home environment. "At the end of a busy day, most of us want to 'cocoon' and escape from the hectic outside world. Adding a wall mural like 'Oriental Garden', 'Cinnamon Bay', 'Clouds' or 'Hawaiian Sunset', helps 'bring the outdoors in with soft colors and calming images.'"

"Serenity", Environmental

Graphics' newest nature-inspired offering, depicts a tranquil garden of rich roses, lavender wildflowers and moss-green shrubbery. A welcoming floral-covered arch and park bench complete the garden oasis motif. When added to a room, it helps establish a balance of color and texture, while emanating a feeling of harmony throughout.

"I wanted this work to create a place where individuals could go to refresh their mind and spirit," says "Serenity" artist Christa Kieffer. "As they look at the mural, they feel connected to their own private view of the country. The hazy background, in particular, helps them envision they live in the place of their dreams."

"When you look at the mural, you're automatically transported to a quieter, gentler place," adds Imholte. "Your blood pressure lowers, your muscles unclench, and you're better able to enjoy the rest of your day."

According to the American Institute of Stress, Americans are more stressed than ever before. Forty three percent of adults suffer adverse health effects as a result, and 75 to 90 percent of adult visits to primary care physicians are precipitated by stress-related problems.

Oral cancer one of top types of disease

Oral cancer will be found in an estimated 30,000 Americans this year and will cause close to 8,000 deaths. Only half of those who develop the disease will live more than five years.

Who is at risk for developing oral cancer?

People who use tobacco and excessive alcohol increase their risk of oral cancer. People who spend a great deal of time in the sun also may have a higher risk for lip cancer.

More than 90 percent of all oral cancers are found in people 45 years of age and older, but oral cancer can happen at any age. Men develop oral cancer twice as often as women, and it occurs more often in African Americans than in whites.

What are the symptoms of oral cancer?

The number of deaths from oral cancer can be reduced if the cancer is found and treated early. Changes in your mouth that may signal the start of oral cancer often can be seen and felt easily. A person can find these changes by doing a monthly exam of his or her mouth. Look for these symptoms, which are some of the warning signs of oral cancer:

- A sore in your mouth that bleeds easily and does not heal
- A lump or thick spot in your cheek that can be felt with your tongue

- A white or red patch on your gums, tongue, or anywhere in your mouth

- Soreness or a feeling that something is caught in your throat
- Difficulty chewing or swallowing your food

- Difficulty moving your jaw or tongue

- Numbness of your tongue or other parts of your mouth

- Swelling of your upper or lower jaw that causes your dentures to fit poorly or hurt your mouth

These are not sure signs of cancer. They also can be caused by many other conditions. It is important to see a dentist or physician if any of these problems lasts more than two weeks. Pain is usually not a sign of oral cancer. Annual visits to a dentist's office are recommended for a professional oral cancer examination.

SUMMER TIPS

to 120° F or less, observing kitchen safety, using flame-retardant sleepwear, and banning the sale of dangerous fireworks.

Outside the home, avoid skin burns by avoiding excessive sun exposure especially from 10 am to 4 pm and using a sunscreen with SPF (skin protective factor) of 15 or higher. Keep children away from lawnmowers in use. Never allow children to ride on mowers. Keep kids from playing near barbecues or bonfires and always have water present when fire is involved.

Firearms pose an ongoing threat in homes. According to a Rand Corporation study, one third of U.S. homes with children have at least one firearm and nearly half of these keep their weapons unsecured. Children should be educated to avoid playing with or touching guns. An unloaded and secure firearm is vital.

The attention given to these safety tips can trim the number of misfortunes seen each year. This summer, let's have fun. Let's be safe.

Tips for choosing a backyard playground for your child

Summer is here and children home from school are thrilled to spend time on their backyard playgrounds. While parents and children only think of the fun they have on the equipment, playgrounds can assist in the development of a child's coordination, imagination and social skills.

Many parents today are building backyard playgrounds. Choosing a backyard playground is not as easy as it seems. There are many important factors beyond a slide and swings to consider:

- Safety-There are no enforced safety standards for residential playgrounds, so look for equipment that meets ASTM (American Society for Testing and Materials) voluntary standards. ASTM compliant playgrounds have safety features such as, rounded corners, recessed hardware and vinyl safety sleeves on the swing chains and avoid overlapping play zones, head or finger entrapments and choke hazards.

- Age Appropriateness-Playground systems are meant to grow with children. Buy a system large enough to keep children interested as they grow. Modularity of units is a plus because components such as monkey bars can be added as children's abilities increase.

- Quality-Find a playground system made from a quality lumber, such as redwood, which is aesthetically beautiful, resistant to decay and insect infestations and requires minimal upkeep.

- Installation-Base-to-height ratios and protective anchoring and surfacing are among the many guidelines that must be followed to ensure a safe playground system.

Look for professional installation to be sure. There are many different sizes, options and accessories available for backyard playground systems. For more information, call 1-800-886-5509 x 2995, or visit

Protect your garden from deer damage

In the spring, deer must make up for lost nourishment suffered during the winter months. A female deer gives birth during this time of year and must eat constantly (at least 5 pounds a day) to nourish both themselves and their fawns. The result: deer damage.

Help protect plants, flowers, shrubs, bulbs and seedlings from damage caused by deer, rabbits and squirrels with DEER-OFF Animal Repellents. Ranked No. 1 out of 25 repellents tested in an independent university study, DEER-OFF protects plants with both an odor and taste barrier. The product is safe, affordable, weather-resistant and the only all-natural repellent approved by the Environmental Protection Agency for use on fruits and vegetables.

Millennium makeover for the yard is easier than you think

Have you decided to turn over a new leaf this century and improve the curb appeal of your home? Start with your yard. There are some clever and inexpensive ways to give your landscape a fresh new look.

Dress it up

Adding flowers is one of the most dramatic ways to "dress up" your entryway. In window boxes, flowerpots or hanging baskets, flowers say "welcome." However, before rushing to your garden store to make a purchase, it's important to determine how much sun your entry receives. This depends, in part, on which direction your entry faces. If it faces south, for example, you probably receive a good amount of sunshine. If it faces north, it's likely to receive very little sun. Regardless of whether your entryway receives little or no sun, take heart: There are things you can do to ensure brilliantly colored flowers will decorate your doorstep.

First, relaying sun and shade information to the staff at your local garden center will help them make appropriate recommendations. Second, whether your area is sunny or shady, using a peat moss-based potting soil in the containers will give your flowers the best "foundation" on which to grow. Unlike the topsoil in your yard, the peat-based soil is pre-mixed with proper amounts of nutrients.

Cut or Move It

Cutting back overgrown trees and shrubs is another simple way to make an impact on the look of your home. Some greenery will need just a trim, while others may require more drastic pruning. Windows viewed from the curb should be fully visible, especially windows that receive a lot of light. Removing low-hanging branches of larger trees and transplanting large shrubs dramatically can improve the curbside view and change the look of your landscape.

Shrubs can pull your entire yard together and hide unattractive areas, giving it a finished look. As well, shrubs offer a splendid variety of shapes and sizes; beautiful blossoms, colorful berries and attractive foliage. Try moving that big globe cedar or variegated dogwood from your front window to cover the unsightly concrete foundation on the side of the house; replace these transplanted shrubs with new perennial plants that are of a more appropriate height; or try a creeping juniper strategically placed to provide a soft transition from the hard lines of your house to your yard.

Whatever type you choose, shrubs and perennials will enhance the look of your yard for years, so take a few minutes before planting or transplanting to provide for their long-term health by properly preparing the soil. The best way to do that is by using Canadian sphagnum peat moss — a natural soil conditioner with a unique cell structure that creates ideal growing conditions. Peat moss regulates moisture and air around plant roots, and also helps retain nutrients vital to plant health.

Ready to start transplanting? Remove your plant from its current location and be sure to get its entire root ball. Choose your new location and dig a hole three times as wide and just as deep as the shrub's root ball. Angle the sides of the hole outward to 45 degrees, and loosen the bottom soil with a garden fork.

Mix one part peat moss with two parts of the dug-up soil. (If your shrub is a type that prefers acidic soil, like a rhododendron or conifer, use one part peat moss to one part soil.) Prune off any damaged or rotted roots. Place the shrub in the planting hole, ensuring that its trunk is straight. Backfill with the soil and peat-moss mixture, and lightly pack.

Container gardening is a simple way to add beauty and color to your yard. A well-prepared, peat-based soil is the key to maintaining healthy, vibrant plants.

Water well, then wait about 15 minutes for the water to soak in and the soil to settle. If necessary, add more soil mixture, but don't backfill above the shrub's bark line.

Using the remaining soil mixture, build a rim, like a saucer, encircling the planting hole, then mulch the inside area. This helps to hold water where it is needed most. After you have completed your yard's makeover, remember to water your new transplants twice a week for a month.

Simple changes like these not only increase the value of your home, but make it a more enjoyable place to live.

Use room dividers to conquer your space problems

Telecommuting, home delivery, home offices, home entertainment... all these new lifestyles are putting more pressure on your available space. Before you drop big bucks on a home remodel or expansion, consider installing room dividers.

"Room dividers offer a unique solution to conflicting demands on space," says Richard Roll, president of American Homeowners Association (AHA). "With a divider, you can separate rooms and reduce conflicts, noise, and clutter. They're both practical and pleasing—and they can be installed easily and quickly with basic tools."

Dividers are available now in many styles and materials. Panelized dividers are practical and easy to customize.

Decorative panels may consist of squares of wood framing covered with finished plywood, glass or other materials in vertical supports. Place glass or wood panels according to your whim—glass allows light while wood provides more privacy. Or leave the panel off and create a cubicle for storage or shelving space.

In order to provide a secure, stable fit, wall modules are anchored at top and bottom with adjustable pads that apply pressure to the ceiling and floor. You can easily provide power for appliances, computers, and electronics by stringing extension cords through the divider or installing conduits.

If you want to go traditional, choose a solid-looking divider made from wood cabinetry. You can add tons of storage and shelving space this way.

See—through glass cabinets provide more light and display space for your china, photographs or other heirlooms. Of course, this solution is less pre-fab and more labor intensive than a panelized divider.

Another solution is to get twin French doors that fit the dimensions of your "wannabe" wall, and to install vertical posts and framing around the doors.

The minimal approach is to purchase stand-alone, folding screens. These panels can be folded and taken away when the wall is not needed.

It's easy to drought-proof your lawn this summer

Sooner or later, a drought will hit your area. Whether this period of abnormally low moisture is long or short, you can plan and prepare for your lawn's survival, according to the Turf Resource Center, an international not-for-profit organization based in suburban Chicago.

Design for drought

The first step in the drought-proofing process is to consider modifying your basic landscape design. Start by reducing large mounds or steep slopes that encourage water to run off before it can soak into the soil. Another aid to making your lawn more drought tolerant is to increase natural air movement by reducing or spacing shrubs and trees that block the prevailing winds. While shade will reduce a lawn's need for water, it can also cause the grass to be too succulent and delicate to survive a severe drought.

A tree's competition for water intended for the lawn is another consideration in your drought-proofing design. Within the scientific community, it is generally agreed that a plant requires water in proportion to its leaf surface. Therefore, a large tree will consume tremendous amounts of water, whether you intend it for the grass or not. It may be best to avoid growing grass too near trees.

Next, improve the soil under your lawn to the greatest extent possible. This requires soil tests to determine what amendment are required. Soil amendments may include lime or sulfur to correct the soil's pH, organic material or even the addition of good topsoil. While it's always best to improve the soil before your lawn is planted, the soil of existing lawns can be improved by annual or biennial (every other year) core aeration and top dressing with required amendments.

If you are getting ready to put in a lawn select new and more drought-tolerant species and varieties of lawn grasses that are especially suited to your area. You may also want to consider using turfgrass sod that is grown in your area for its drought tolerance because it will create a mature lawn almost instantly. If you are improving an existing lawn that can be seeded, consider using new varieties of grasses that are the same species as you now have. A top-quality garden center or extension turf specialist can help you.

Pre-Drought Maintenance

For existing lawns, maintenance practices 30-45 days prior to an expected drought, dry period or excessively hot time of year can have a real impact on your lawn's survivability. The idea is to make your lawn as strong and healthy as possible before the onset of a drought or excessive heat. This can best be accomplished by the following:

- reduce thatch and compaction
- reduce or eliminate nitrogen fertilizer and increase potassium fertilizer
- water late at night or early in the morning.
- water infrequently and deeply.
- sharpen your mower blade two or three times during the season.
- mow often enough so you never remove more than the top one-third or one-half of the grass blades.
- leave clippings on the lawn as you mow, unless the clippings are clumping
- avoid using weed-killers (herbicide pesticides).

Dealing with drought

At the earliest stages of a drought, or when the temperatures reach high levels for a week or more, additional steps can be taken, as long as adequate landscape water is available. While continuing the practices listed above, add these steps:

- raise the mowing height 25 percent or more
- reduce traffic on the lawn
- increase watering on areas near buildings and other heat reflecting surfaces and on high or sloped areas where the winds will dry the lawn faster and water may not penetrate as deeply.

If the drought and/or hot weather continues for an extended period or watering restrictions are implemented, these steps should be employed according to the severity of conditions:

- eliminate all traffic on the lawn
- restrict watering to the areas you determine are most important to you.
- accept that the unwatered portion of your lawn will be dormant and brown until conditions.

Dr. James Beard, in his textbook, "Turfgrass: Science and Culture," reports, "It is better to restrict irrigation than to intensively irrigate for a portion of a drought period and then miss several weeks. A brown dormant turf may actually be in better condition physiologically during a droughty period than an excessively or inadequately irrigated turf."

When the drought breaks

At the end of a drought, when cooler weather returns, or when watering restrictions are reduced or eliminated, grass will naturally begin to recover, but a beautiful and environmentally beneficial lawn will require your assistance.

Begin with deep watering that restores the soil moisture. This will wash off the leaves, re-hydrate the grass's dormant crowns and buds and initiate root growth. Heavy traffic should be avoided on freshly watered lawns because it contributes to compaction.

After a week or two of recuperative watering, when the grass has started to recover, apply a reduced amount of a balanced fertilizer. The fertilizer analysis should be in proportions that come as close as possible to 4-1-2 for nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium. High-nitrogen fertilizer should still be avoided, unless it is late in the growing season, because a drought or hot weather could return.

Once the grass is growing strong, consider applying a herbicide (weed killer) to individual weeds or the entire area, according to need. Removing competitive weeds will make more water and nutrients available to the grass and help the lawn thicken so it will eventually crowd out weeds on its own.

Practicing drought-preparation lawn maintenance throughout the growing season every year will not only help to ensure that your lawn will be beautiful but that it also continues to be a safe play area and effectively controls erosion and dust while it naturally converts carbon dioxide to clean oxygen and entraps particulate pollutants.

Intermatic's Good Nite Light is cool to the touch

The Good Nite Light® from Intermatic provides subtle illumination around the house, costs only two cents a year to operate and never requires maintenance. Best of all, it's cool to the touch, eliminating any possibility of children burning their fingers.

Ideal for children's bedrooms, hallways, bathrooms, kitchens, dens and other areas, this stylish addition to Intermatic's night light line produces a warm green glow. By utilizing electroluminescent technology there is no need for a light bulb.

The Good Nite Light plugs into a standard household electrical receptacle and uses less than one percent the electricity of an ordinary night light.

"The night light is a real breakthrough because it's versatile, energy efficient and an attractive addition to any family's home," says Mark Kardon, Intermatic's marketing manager for Consumer Products.

UL listed and CSA certified, the new Good Nite Light is available at hardware stores, home centers, discount outlets and mass merchants. It's sold individually, in twin packs and in three packs.

And except that part thereof conveyed to the railroad and except that part described as follows: beginning in the center of the Fox River Road at a point which is 163 rods and 4 feet West of the East line and 58 rods and 7 1/2 feet South of the North line of said South Half of the North Half of Section 17 (said point of beginning being the North West corner of a parcel of land described in Book 66 of Deeds, page 581); thence East along the North line of said parcel of land to the Westerly right of way of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railroad; thence Southerly along the said Westerly right of way line 120 feet; thence West parallel with the North line of said parcel to the center of said State Highway 21; thence Northwesterly along the center of said State Highway 83 to the point of beginning, in Lake County, Illinois.

REQUEST: The petitioner requests B-3 and M-1 zoning, pending annexation, and subject to a specific planned development (PUD) plan being presented and reviewed through a future public hearing process, as required by Section 150.105, et seq., of the Antioch Zoning Ordinance.

PROPOSAL: The specific zoning requested for each parcel, (see map, below) is as follows:

Parcel 1: Commercial, B-3 PUD; allowed for retail commercial; ideal for "big box" user. Includes all of PIN 02-16-300-003 (approximately 810,183 sq. ft., or 18.6 acres).

Parcel 2: Route 83 Frontage, B-3 PUD; retail commercial zoning; strip centers / restaurants, etc. Includes area west of railroad tracks in PIN's 02-17-200-024; and 02-17-400-021, -028, and -004 (approximately 456,414 sq. ft. or 10.5 acres).

Parcel 3: Route 173 frontage, commercial zoning B-3 PUD; allowed for retail/commercial. Ideal for car dealer, big box user. Consists of all of PIN 02-17-400-003 and portions of PIN's 02-17-400-021 and 02-17-200-024 east of the west line of the excluded residential parcel (PIN 02-17-400-029) (Approximately 443,294 sq. ft. or 10.18 acres).

Parcel 4A & 4B: Grimm Road frontage, commercial or industrial B-3/M-1 blended PUD. Parcel 4A consists of all of PIN 02-17-400-028 and portions of PIN's 02-17-300-024 and 02-17-400-021 lying west of the west line of the excluded residential parcel and east of the railroad tracks (approximately 100,708 sq. ft., or 23.12 acres). Parcel 4B consists of that portion of PIN 02-17-400-022 which is within 200 feet of Grimm Road (approximately 454,200 sq. ft., or 10.43 acres).

Parcel 5: Interior piece, M-1 PUD, industrial uses, perhaps corporate campus. Contains all of PIN 02-17-400-004 and that portion of PIN 02-17-400-022 which is not within 200 feet of Grimm Road (approximately 2,677,872 sq. ft., or 61.47 acres).

Notwithstanding the permitted uses lists within Sections 150.083 and 150.091 of the Antioch Zoning Ordinance, some uses will be excluded from these parcels; and such specific exclusions shall be indicated in an annexation agreement.

The petition, companion annexation petition, proposed plat of annexation and draft annexation agreement are on file and available for public viewing at the Office of Village Clerk, 674 Main Street, and the Ready Reference Section of the Antioch Public Library, 757 Main Street.

Hazardous collection

Steven Bavetz, Anthony Simpson and Joe Rankins remove household chemicals as part of the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) household chemical collection at the College of Lake County in Grayslake. According to SWALCO's Steve Nelson, a Household Hazardous Waste Engineer, SWALCO averages 1,000 customers at each of the seven to eight different drop-off sites beginning in May and going through November. Nelson said that items, dropped off free of charge, include such things as paint, motor oil, paint thinners and cleaners to put into recycling and reuse programs.—Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom

Fox River, Chain O'Lakes from Wisconsin border to Algonquin Dam closed

The Fox Waterway Agency (FWA) announced that, effective at 6 a.m. on May 23, the U.S. Coast Guard (USCG) and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR), Office of Water Resources, has closed the Fox River and Chain O'Lakes from the Wisconsin border to the Algonquin Dam to boating, as well as all other uses, due to high water levels and strong currents. (It is important to note that only the USCG and IDNR have the jurisdictional authority to close the Waterway, and then to re-open it once it is closed.)

Closure of the Fox River and Chain is expected to be in effect until at least, May 27.

"Closing the waterway is always a difficult decision, but it's become a safety and property damage issue," said Frank Novak, lockmaster of the Stratton Lock and Dam, which is operated by the IDNR.

Novak expects water levels to rise another three to six inches in the Fox River/Chain O'Lakes area in Lake and McHenry county, and to stabilize by late May 23. He does not expect water levels to begin to drop until late in the day on May 24 or 25th.

"Right now, we're in the category of a Flood Warning Level 2, which is 'minor flooding'—it doesn't look like there is any structural flooding at this point," said Novak. "The National Weather Service is forecasting that the river will not drop below flood stage at New Munster, Wis., (just north of the Wisconsin border) until May 25th. At present, the New Munster, Wis. gauge is registering approximately two feet over flood stage."

The Stratton and Algonquin Dam operation manual identifies the current water level as a minor flood stage, which is defined as "that river elevation which results in the flooding of low-lying agricultural and park lands, roads and basements. Bank erosion may also occur, as may some minor damages."

Novak said he does not anticipate water levels will reach flood warning level 3 as "that river elevation which results in low-level flooding of homes and businesses".

According to gauge readings from 8 a.m. May 22, an estimated 2,800 cubic feet per second (cfs) of water are coming into the system at New Munster, Wis. and 750 cfs at Nippersink Creek, with total in flows to the system of 3,550 cfs. Approximately 3,300 cfs were recorded going over the Stratton Dam and 3,600 cfs going over the Algonquin Dam. (FYI—at 8 a.m. on May 19, an estimated, 2,700 cfs were coming into the system at New Munster, Wis. and 900 cfs at Nippersink Creek (with total inflows to the system of 3,600 cfs), 2,500 cfs were recorded going over the Stratton Dam and 3,000 cfs going over the Algonquin Dam.

The low-flow gates at Stratton Dam are open. Although the gates are not designed to control flooding (they are designed to help move water along when water levels are so low that water will not flow over the Stratton Dam spillway), they do offer some help in moving the water through the system. There are no floodgates at the Algonquin Dam, which is an eight-foot high spillway.

"Due to the high water levels, the (Fox Waterway) Agency can't keep up with the large amount of floating debris said Rob Rinkenberger, FWA Debris coordinator.

son. "Research has proven that people die earlier if they are alone."

Dr. Kay Velisek, a clinical psychologist in Arlington Heights, said the majority of her elderly patients are women in their 70s. She noted that some of their depression is more of an angry type, based on the differences in relationships with their husbands.

"These women are angry and resentful that they were sold a bill of goods that the younger generation is not buying into anymore," commented Velisek, referring to a time when it was socially acceptable for women to be repressed and controlled by their spouses.

Velisek also acknowledged loss of a spouse or a severe illness of a spouse as common triggers for depression in her elderly patients.

Diagnosis of depression in the elderly is difficult because of the various contributing factors that do exist. However, Jackson said she has implemented the Yesavage Geriatric Depression Scale at Victory Lakes as an effective means of determining depression in the residents.

She pointed out that anti-depressant medications tend to be more successful than cognitive and behavioral therapy with her residents because, more often than not, chemical disorders in the brain are more prevalent. Plus the success of cognitive therapy depends on the level of cognition in the resident, Jackson said.

Jackson stated that the amount of depression between the male and females residents at Victory Lakes is equal, but they evidence their symptoms differently.

"The women get more emotional or sad, and the men just get angry," she explained.

Jackson also noted that the depressed males are more likely to use lethal weapons in suicide attempts whereas the females take a gentler way out such as pills.

Although Victory Lakes has not had any suicides among its residents, Jackson did note that "passive suicide" does occur.

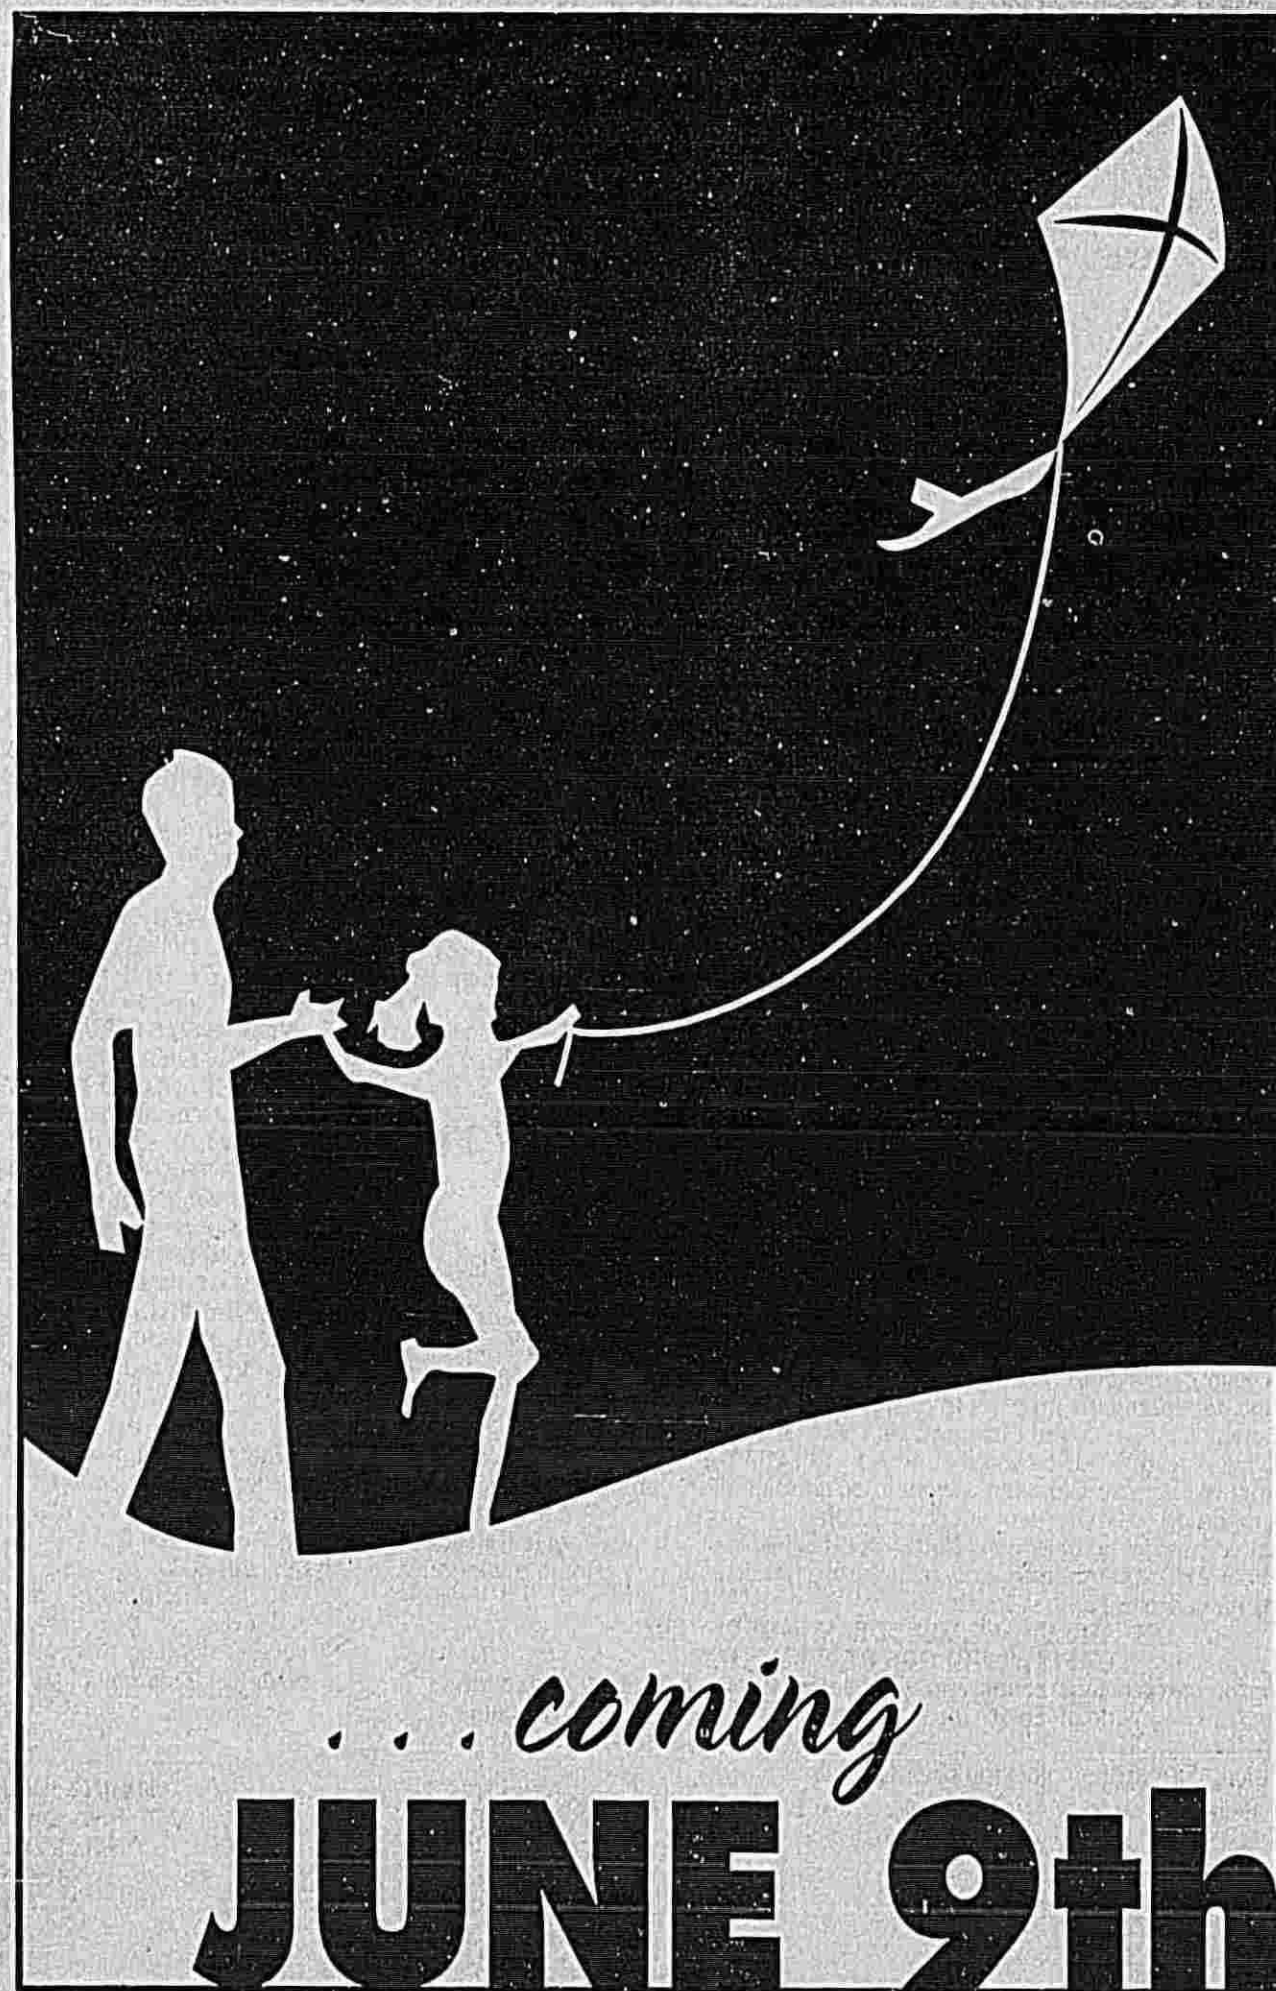

Passive or silent suicide, as it is sometimes called, is defined as the intention to kill oneself through starvation or not taking prescribed medications.

Jackson said that if a resident is competent, Victory Lakes does not have the right to step in and prevent such an action. She referred to a 96-year-old resident who chose to starve to death after leading "a wonderful life."

"This resident was happy and content. It was her choice and no one took that away from her," said Jackson. "She died with dignity."

The challenge in the legal and medical professions is how to determine whether those committing silent suicide are making rational decisions.

For the elderly who refuse to admit their depression or take prescribed anti-depressant medication, Jackson has this advice, "Life could be so much better if you admit you have the illness. To not try (treatment) is such a disadvantage to yourself."

The Ten Commandments of Employment

Last week I explored some guidelines employees need to follow in order to maintain a good relationship with their employer. This week we will look at the rules that will help us to maintain good relationships with others (peers, vendors, subordinates, customers, etc.)

5. Thou shall respect everyone you work with. Show respect in the little things that you do like getting coffee for the person sitting next to you when you get your own coffee. Listening to others is a great way to show respect. Understanding their viewpoint, even when you don't agree, is a sign of respect.

6. Thou shall not murder. This includes murdering someone's reputation, or implying they are incompetent. If you want to build strong relationships, build up each person you work with. Compliment people when they do a good job. Also, tell others what a great job he or she did.

7. Thou shall not have office romances, because it can destroy the office moral. This does not mean that you can not date someone in the office. However, if you are dating someone in the office, keep it respectable. Make sure there are always others around when you are together. If it starts to get serious let everyone know where the relationship is going.

8. You shall not steal. Taking things that don't belong to you will destroy relationships. This includes small things like a pencil, a pen or a CD. It also includes taking credit for work that was done by someone else. Every time you are perceived as being dishonest your credibility is reduced. If your credibility is good others can trust you. Their trust is the basis for a strong relationship.

9. Thou shall not give false testimony against your neighbor. Lying will reduce your credibility more effectively than anything else you can do. The truth will always serve you well. When you cause a problem admit it. When you make a mistake admit it. When you think someone else may have done something wrong, ask that person about it. Do not talk to anyone else except that person, until you hear his or her side of the story.

10. Thou shall not covet anything. This is called "Keeping up with the Joneses". Wanting things (including status, glory or high positions) and allowing that to be the driving force in your life will cause you to make bad decisions, which will hurt your relationships.

Yes, these rules follow the commandments that Moses brought down for Mount Sinai in about 1450 BC. They have helped people live productive lives for almost 3500 years and they can help you maintain strong relationships in the workplace.

WE DO NOT KNOWINGLY ACCEPT ADS FOR ANIMALS IN OUR FREE/ GIVE AWAY COLUMN.

If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts.

*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.

*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.

*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

Q: I am in the job market after being released from my position after 4 months. I really enjoyed my job with (name withheld), and saw myself being there for a long time after constantly changing jobs after short periods of time in the past 5 years. When I first started working for them, I was told that I was on a probationary period for 3 months at which time when completed I would be offered company benefits. For the first 3 months I worked real hard and always offered to stay later if I was needed. As the 3rd month date passed, I asked my boss when I was going to be offered the benefits, and he said he would find out what was holding it up. I asked him every day for the following couple of weeks, and every time I would ask him, he would say to me that he'll find out. Another person who started 2 weeks after me, but in another position was already offered benefits. I finally decided to go to the personnel department to find out what was going on. I told her that I had asked repeatedly about when I will receive benefits. The person in the position spoke to me briefly and said that she hadn't been given any information on an offer of benefits and would look in to it and get back to me. Two days later as I had just arrived for work I was terminated by my boss. His response to me was, "That will teach you to try to go over your managers head." With that he handed me a box of my personal things and I left. I don't believe that legally he can let me go for going over his head. I am angry mostly because I liked that job, but more so because a person should not be released from their job for asking a question concerning something that was promised to them. Is this legal and should I pursue this with a lawyer? Thank you. P.F. - Lake Zurich

Dear Search,

A: For whatever reason your manager was holding off giving you benefits, they must have been justified. What I don't agree with was his avoidance of the issues (whatever they were). I was not there with you on a daily basis to evaluate your work performance, ability to get along with co-workers, your attendance or anything else, so it would be wrong of me to assume what went on. From your letter I understand that perhaps you are not used to job security as you shared your past history of constantly changing jobs after short periods of time. You didn't mention whether or not these job changes were by choice. Perhaps it is that same history that caused the manager to question your long term capability. Again, I cannot assume. Should you contact a lawyer? Anyone can sue anyone, for anything. Will you win? Considering your past history, perhaps you should spend your energy, instead of your time, and money focusing on a new career. For your own sake, preferably one that you can stay and grow with so your resume or job applications will show that you have a sense of stability. Good Luck.

Send your inquiries to our new website www.superiorpersonnel.com

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.
